Federal Troops on Increased Alert

Violence May Mar Demonstration

FIRST ARRIVAL—Alan Gray, of Atlanta, Ga., was one of the first to arrive Friday to participate in a mass antiwar march and rally. The Washington Monument is in the background. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Foes of American involvement in Indochina marshaled today for the largest antiwar demonstration in almost a year. The Pentagon placed troops on alert and Attorney General John M. Mitchell warned there was a "substantial possibility" of violence.

The National Peace Action Coalition, which organized the rally, predicted a turnout of perhaps a quarter-million persons. But District of Columbia Police Chief Jerry V. Wilson said his force was prepared for about 100,000 demonstrators.

The protesters, who poured into Washington by car, bus and plane, planned a mass march down Pennsylvania Avenue and a rally at the foot of the Capitol.

Many of the demonstrators arrived early and spent the night on the Mall stretching from the Lincoln Memorial to the Capitol, and in other open areas. One young man was seen asleep on the hood of his car at the Ellipse just south of the White House fence.

Government offices were closed, except for the Pentagon and the Justice Department. Congress was not in session, and President Nixon was at his Camp David, Md., retreat.

It was the largest mass rally in Washington since thousands gathered in mid-May, 1970, to protest the American invasion of Cambodia and the killing of four students at Kent State University. A similar demonstration was scheduled in San Francisco.

Plans to disrupt traffic leading into Washington were announced by a coalition of militant antiwar activists led by Rennie Davis.

They said they also would try to shut down Congress and other government activity after Saturday. The group set up a camp ground along the Potomac River to serve as a base for activities continuing through May 1.

The defense department said federal troops had been placed on "increased alert" for today. Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Mitchell said there had been "absolutely no movement" of the troops and that they remained at their home stations. He declined to give the number of men alerted.

Jerry Gordon, a co-chairman of the rally, said the Pentagon move was motivated by a desire to confine GIs to their posts and prevent thousands of GIs from joining the march as planned.

Mitchell said Friday at news conferences in Washington and in Cincinnati that the demonstrations beginning today would include some militants who have said they will provoke violence.

"There is no question in my mind that some of the individuals who will be participating in some of these activities at some time are inspired by outside interests," Mitchell said. "And we do have a substantial possibility of physical confrontation and a substantial possibility of physical harm in the District of Columbia."

Later, Justice Department aides said Mitchell did not intend to imply that the vast majority of demonstrators would be other than peaceful. They said he merely wished to state the government was aware trouble might be provoked by some elements.

Gordon described the Attorney General's remarks as a "scare tactic."

"We predict it will serve to bring out any who may have hesitated about coming to Washington," Gordon said.

Friday night about 3,000 persons, including about 400 uniformed servicemen, sang and prayed in opposition to the war at Washington's National Cathedral. The Concerned Officers Movement, an antiwar group of active duty servicemen, sponsored the religious memorial service for the "Gold Star Mothers" Mrs. Anna Pine, Trenton, N.J., and Mrs. Evelyn Carrasquillo, Miami, Fla.

worshippers he hoped "these demonstrations are the Selma of the war." He called for the raising of $50 million for "reparations" for Indochinese victims of the war.

"If America forgets its countless moral obligations," Drinan said, "we will rightfully be called barbarians."

Earlier Friday about 1,000 members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War ended five days of protests in the capital by flinging their campaign medals over a six-foot-high wire fence towards the west side of the Capitol.

One speaker described the decorations acquired for service in Vietnam as "symbols of shame and dishonor."

"Here's my merit badge for murder," one demonstrator shouted. "Nixon's going to burn in hell for the murders he's doing."

Soyuz 10 in Space Platform Rendezvous

MOSCOW (UPI)—The three-man Soviet Soyuz 10 spaceship achieved rendezvous with the unmanned space platform Salute today and carried out docking and communications tests preparatory to establishment of mankind's first orbiting space station.

The report by the news agency Tass did not make it clear whether Soyuz 10 actually performed a hard linkup with the Salute ship but said:

"In the process of a joint scientific and technical experiments were carried out and work on docking and undocking of the manned spacecraft with the orbital station Salute.

"During this time, principles of approaching and docking of the spacecraft with the automatic station were tested and new docking collars were tested. Also the complex of radio and technical instruments were tested."

Tass said the maneuvers were carried out during the 12th orbit of Soyuz 10, which went aloft early Friday, and in flight scientific and technical experiments were carried out

The report said all three cosmonauts — Vladimir Shatalov, Alexei Yeliseyev and Nikolai Rukavishnikov — felt well. It said their ship and the Salute station were functioning normally. The cosmonauts went into a rest period after the maneuvers, and while their craft is out of radio contact with the Baikonur Cosmodrome in Central Asia, Tass said.

The language of the Tass report was indefinite on the question of docking. The phrase "work was done on docking and undocking" may have meant only that preparations were made and systems were checked. The actual physical connection may not have been attempted.

The report came after nearly 16 hours of silence from official Soviet news outlets on the flight. It is the usual practice during Soviet manned space flights to issue no progress reports during difficult or complicated maneuvers until the maneuvers have been completed.

Scientific sources in Moscow have predicted that as many as three more manned ships may join Soyuz 10 and Salute in orbit during the next few days.

They will link up and assemble the first manned orbital space platform. One possibility was that the ships will be linked with Salute into a cartwheel shape with Salute as the hub.

The Soyuz 10 commander, Col. Vladimir Shatalov, and the test engineer, Nikolai Rukavishnikov, are sons of railwaymen. The flight engineer, Alexei Yeliseyev, is a master of fencing.

Tass said one task of Soyuz 10 would be to carry out "joint experiments" with Salute. Yeliseyev confirmed the flight was part of a space construction program in an interview comment:

"We have now started a new stage in space exploration connected with the preparation of orbital stations."

The United States does not plan to attempt a manned orbital station before mid-1973.

Moscow space sources said the eventual complement of manned vehicles probably would practice rendezvous and docking before undertaking any space construction.

Izvestia, the government newspaper, said the 10-year-old Soviet manned spaceflight program was entering an era "in which cosmonautics will practically become a branch of the national economy."

Fire Danger Continues in Area

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ

The danger of fires in wooded areas, forest lands, and old open fields remains acute in the Ulster-Dutchess area, according to William H. Sussdorf of the New Paltz District Office of the State Department of Environmental Conservation.

The Conservation Department has suspended all burning permits. These permits are required for the clearing or areas by burning. No permit is required for campfires, but Sussdorf advised against starting one unless absolutely necessary.

Yesterday was a Class Five day, the highest danger classification, in both counties. Today will be the same if the anticipated 15-25-mile per hour winds materialize.

Mother Nature is trying to ease the danger as the "fine fuels" (grasses, ferns, etc.), in the lowlands enter a "transitional" stage. Sussdorf pointed out that about 25 per cent of these "fine fuels" are now green. This would alleviate much of the danger if the area only had a little rain.

The Build-Up Index, which Sussdorf said was a measure of the constitution of the air mass and the lack of moisture was in the 40's. The Build-Up Index for Northern New Jersey is 56. Sussdorf said this was extremely high for the month of April, and "if it rained an inch it would put it back to nothing."

Sussdorf also noted the Spread Index, the measure of how quickly and widely a fire might spread, was very high yesterday, with winds gusting to 30 miles per hour. This index will be high today if wind forecasts are accurate.

Sussdorf said a high percentage of fires was started over the Easter vacation by unattended children's campfires, and these fires caused a great deal of damage. Department regulations require that a campfire be constantly attended, and that an area of three feet around the campfire be cleared down to "mineral soil." A campfire must be completely quenched before leaving.

The Town of Esopus has followed the department's lead and banned all burning in the township until further notice.

The lack of rain has also dried out houses and outbuildings, and the official pointed out that there was a danger of brush fires setting them afire, or building fires setting the woods on fire.

Area fire departments, adding emphasis to the dangerous conditions, had a busy day with brush fires yesterday. In Ulster County there were brush fires in Cragmoor, Wallkill, Mount Marion, Ruby, Highland, Napanoch, Port Ewen, and Accord. There were dump fires in New Paltz, Plattekill and Kerhonkson.

The fire in Highland burned about 12 acres before it was brought under control. Forest Ranger Byron Hill led the crew of about 30, assisted by the Highland Fire Department.

Guilty of Murder, Manslaughter

Alice Collapses After Verdict

ALICE CRIMMINS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Alice Crimmins, charged by the prosecution with killing her children to keep her husband from getting custody of them, was convicted Friday of murder and manslaughter.

Mrs. Crimmins, 32, a stunning redhead, collapsed into her chair and wept as the verdict was read finding her guilty of first degree murder in the death of her son, Edmond Jr., 5, and first degree manslaughter in the death of her daughter, Alice Marie, 4.

"Oh my God, how could they do it?" she cried.

First degree murder carries a mandatory sentence of life imprisonment and manslaughter a maximum of 20 years. State Supreme Court Justice George J. Balbach set sentencing for May 13.

Mrs. Crimmins' attorney, Herbert Lyon, said the jury was swayed by the thought it had to find someone guilty. He said he would appeal.

The former barmaid's former husband, Edmund Crimmins, was with the defendant in court. The two were separated when the Crimmins' children disappeared in July, 1965. The prosecution said Mrs. Crimmins killed them to deny him custody and presented one witness who testified she once said she would "rather see her children dead" than let him have them. Since their children's death they have been divorced.

The girl's body was found in an empty lot a day after her disappearance and the boy's body was found in a park several days later. The prosecution claimed Mrs. Crimmins garroted the daughter in a fit of anger and arranged to have Edmund killed to make it appear the children were victims of a sexually deviant kidnaper.

Mrs. Crimmins was tried three years ago for the daughter's death and convicted of manslaughter, but that verdict was overturned on appeal. In the second trial, she was tried in connection with the son's death for the first time.

A member of the all-male jury that convicted Mrs. Crimmins Friday said the jury decided about noon that she was guilty "but then we had to kick around the degree of guilt." The jurors finally decided on a verdict of first degree murder in the boy's death after determining the question of premeditation, the unidentified juror said. The jury deliberated 16 hours.

CSEA Considering Statewide Strike

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Three separate but similar court actions against the state were in development today as state employees mounted opposition to the layoff of 8,250 of their number.

The head of the 140,000-member Civil Service Employees association, Theodore Wenzl, said Friday his group wanted the courts to declare the state budget unconstitutional.

He also disclosed at a news conference the CSEA was considering a statewide strike as a possible job action. "That's one of the plans we're looking into," he remarked.

Wenzl said the court challenge had been initiated and legal papers were being served on Gov. Rockefeller and other state officials.

Two other cases, meanwhile, were already in court. An attorney for 160 dismissed Civil Defense department employees argued in State Supreme Court that the state's abolition of the CD agency violated state law. Lawyer Samuel Resnicoff also claimed a federal contract was being broken, saying the state had agreed to operate civil defense centers for 25 years.

Decision was reserved for 20 days in a third case, this one involving 21 professional planners whose jobs were wiped out when the Office of Planning Coordination was abolished.

Their attorney, Michael A. Feit, claimed the planners were dismissed "unfairly, without any procedural safeguards."

The extension of that case meant the planners would face dismissal as originally scheduled. But State Supreme Court Justice Louis G. Bruhn suggested that if the dismissals are shown to be improper, the workers might be able to seek compensation for lost pay.

The other two cases were adjourned to Monday, when they will be heard jointly in State Supreme Court.

In explaining its attempt to repeal state layoffs, the CSEA asserted the furloughed workers were "denied due process and equal protection under both the state and federal constitutions because of the manner in which the budget was passed, as well as the manner in which the dismissal was made."

The CSEA contended that department heads were given too much freedom in ordering layoffs, since their budgets were granted as lump sums rather than item by item and employee by employee.

In another action concerning budget cuts, Albany County Judge Martin Schenck asked the state Narcotics Addiction Control Commission why it was not accepting addicts for treatment. Schenck, in a letter to commission chairman Milton Luger, said the commission had not taken custody of six addicts certified by Albany County.

Earlier the commission said that to economize it intended to halt admission of new addicts to treatment facilities as of April 30.

Meanwhile, petitions are being circulated locally by the Narcotic Correction Officers Local 408, Security Services Unit, Mid-Hudson Rehabilitation Center, Beacon protesting reduction of inpatient treatment program by 50 per cent due to budget cuts.

Three busloads of protestors are expected to go to Albany Monday to take the plea to the state legislators. Local 408 representatives met with Senator Richard E. Schermerhorn (R-37th District) in Albany, Wednesday to discuss the budget cuts in the narcotics program and representatives were in Kingston Tuesday when the State Senate convened here.

Gordon Fry, president of the local said in a statement today that the "closing of the Mid-Hudson Rehabilitation Center in Beacon would mean there would be no drug treatment center in the Mid-Hudson area for the many local drug addicts."

Ulster County drug addicts are sent to the Beacon center. Questioning the legislators budget cuts, Fry said, "The State Lawmakers have hit the most sensitive and essential areas of state government—those concerning the poor, the mentally ill, the drug addicts and the students. Why wasn't the miscellaneous budget of $113 million which is traditionally a source of heavy patronage, cut."

He also questioned the allocation of $13 million for the Council of Arts, asking "Is the Council of Arts more important than drug addiction, mental illness and education?"

Time to Spring Ahead for Daylight

Darren Donald Gunzelmann greets the arrival of Daylight Saving Time with a welcoming wave, maybe because it puts him that much closer to his second birthday in June. At any rate local residents must remember to "spring ahead" one hour as DST becomes official at 2 a. m. Sunday. Darren is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Gunzelmann of Old Hurley. Training Sessions Set by Episcopalians

NEW PALTZ
A series of training sessions for lay readers of the Episcopal Church started last week at New Paltz and will continue through June 13.

The school consists of eight sessions to be held Sundays from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Mid-Hudson Regional Office, 3 North Oakwood Terrace, New Paltz. Introduction and orientation was given last week by the Rev. Robert N. Willing, Mid-Hudson regional officer of the Episcopal Diocese of New York. Other speakers and programs in the series are as follows:

April 25, Old Testament, the Rev. R. Rhys Williams, ThD; May 2, New Testament, the Rev. William G. Weinbauer, ThD; May 9, Church History, the Rev. Andrew W. Palmer; May 16, Liturgics, Prayer Book, the Rev. Leonel L. Mitchell, ThD; May 23, Spiritual Life, the Rev. Richard G. Shepherd; June 6, Theology, the Very Rev. Kenneth R. Waldron, DD; June 13, Conduct of Corporate Worship: A Practicum, the Rev. H. Bruce Lederhouse.

Acting as chairman throughout will be H. Richard Barrett of Kingston, prominent layman and member of the Council of the Diocese.
While the program is meant chiefly for the training and subsequent licensing of lay readers, it is open to all Episcopal Church members as a study in adult education. Episcopalians in Dutchess, Orange, Sullivan and Ulster Counties who are interested in attending the school may obtain further details from their clergy.

Local Church Takes Part In AME Zion Celebrations

KINGSTON
Members of the Franklin Street AME Zion Church and their pastor, the Rev. Edward C. Morton, are taking part in many events connected with the sesqui-centennial celebration of the New York Conference of the denomination.

Four members of the Franklin Street church will be honored at a testimonial banquet Wednesday at the Huntington House, Huntington, L.I., when gold medallions will be presented to members of local churches who have served 50 years or more.

Mission Series Ends Sunday at Katrine Church

LAKE KATRINE
The second annual missionary conference of Grace Community Church, Lake Katrine will conclude April 25 with the Rev. and Mrs. Richard Innes ministering at the 10:45 a.m. worship service and the 6 p.m. faith promise service.

The week of celebration opens today with memorial services at Mother AME Zion Church, 140-46 West 137th Street, New York City and will continue through April 30. Services today 5 p.m. will be conducted by Bishop Alfred Dunston who will deliver the memorial address and place a wreath on the crypt of the first Bishop, James V. Aronson.

Associated with Youth For Christ International in Australia, they are presently in this country for deputation work and missionary conferences. In addition, the Rev. and Mrs. Innes will be special guests at a junior high-senior youth banquet tonight.

The Rt. Rev. Herbert Bell Shaw of Wilmington, N.C., will deliver the sesqui-centennial address Sunday 4 p.m., and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is slated to deliver the welcoming address.

At all meetings they will present a gospel message in word and song. The public may attend.

Scouts to Get Awards At Cathedral Sunday

KINGSTON
Twenty-two scouts from the Rip Van Winkle Council comprising Ulster and Greene Counties will receive Catholic Scout emblems Sunday at St.

Patrick's Cathedral, New York City.

The Ad Altare Dei awards are earned by boys studying their faith and performing good works. In addition, six Bronze Pelican emblems will be conferred on adult scouts in recognition of their years of service and spiritual leadership in the scouting program.

Youth to Speak At Sunday Rite

KINGSTON

Memoriam
In loving memory of John H. Waterman who passed away two years ago, April 25, 1969.

The night is gone, the day is past.

But memories of you will last and last.

You were so kind, loving and true.

You loved us, John, we loved you too.

You did your duty, always doing your best.

God in heaven will do the rest.

Memoriam
In Loving Memory of my husband, Clifford Woodworth, who passed away five years ago April 24, 1966.

At night the silent stars look down

On a grave not far from here.

Where sleeps the one I can't forget.

The one I loved so dear.

If I had all the world to give, I would give it, yes and more.

To hear his voice and see his smile

And greet him at the door.

The years may wipe out many things,

But this they wipe out never, The memory of those happy days

When we were both together.

Your loving wife

Nace Reminds Ulster Seniors On Deadline

TOWN OF ULSTER
Ulster County Legislator Richard D. Nace (R-Dist. 2), representing the Towns of Ulster, Kingston, Hurley and Marlborough, reminds all senior citizens in his legislative district that, in order to qualify for the partial exemption of real property of aged persons, they must file with their town assessor by May 1.

Senior citizens 65 years of age and over are required to file every year in order to qualify for the half-tax exemption. The maximum allowable income for the Towns of Ulster, Kingston and Hurley is $5,000 and in the Town of Marlborough it is $4,000 for town purposes and $5,000 for persons residing within the Rondout Valley Central School District.

Application forms are available from Marlborough Assessor Benjamin Van Wagenen, Hurley Assessor Joseph Lohmeyer, Hurley Assessor Schuyler Weidner, and Town of Kingston Assessor Joseph Carcamo.

Antique Show Planned to Aid Children

KINGSTON
Plans for an antique show to raise funds for a summer recreational - motivation program for Ulster County children with learning disabilities, were made at a recent meeting of the Ulster County Association for Children With Learning Disabilities.

The antique show will be held in conjunction with, but independently of Hurley Stone House Day, July 10.

Dr. Milton Chasin, association president, said the summer recreational program is slated for a four week period, either in July or August. Activities will include swimming, hiking, volleyball, basketball, arts and crafts and various physical-educable games.

Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Joseph Stinton or by attending the next monthly meeting of the association, Tuesday, May 18 at 8 p.m. in the Edison School, Merilina Ave., Kingston.

Attorney General Defends the FBI

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Attorney General John M. Mitchell, himself and to preserve the right of the public to protect in a major defense of federal government it has created' and surveillance activities, Friday he said domestic threats should not be separated from foreign "derelict" if it did not use national security wiretapping to defend itself against "jungle attack."

Wiretapping without a court order goes back more than 30 years — to the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mitchell said. He said it was carried out through the House Republican Leader, Gerald R. Ford of Michigan is charged that Boggs had failed to furnish proof that his exercise of self-preservation, "but the court order in the same manner that it taps the phones of foreign elements. This right is implicit in the Constitution's very existence and in the political theory on which it is based," Mitchell said. "I refer to the social danger from the so-called 'jungle' which man voluntarily gives up a degree of freedom to a government of his own making, which in turn can defend itself against illegal attacks on its liberties against attack, or in the last analysis we have anarchy."

Mitchell agreed the government can tap telephones of domestic dissidents without a court order in the same manner that it taps the phones of foreign elements. "I don't see how we can separate the two, but if it were possible, I would say that experience has shown greater danger from the so-called 'jungle' which man voluntarily gives up a degree of freedom to a government of his own making, which in turn can defend itself against illegal attacks on its liberties against attack, or in the last analysis we have anarchy."

Artificial Pancreas Will Aid Diabetics

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A chemist laid off last fall by California's sagging aerospace industry has provided the expertise which led to a breakthrough for developing an artificial pancreas for diabetics.

Researchers at the University of Southern California Medical School said Friday they have developed a sensor to measure blood sugar in the body without interfering with the body's chemistry.

Lack of such an instrument has been the major stumbling block in a 20-year effort to build a device that would automatically add insulin to the bloodstream.

More than one million diabetics in the United States—who now must test their urine for indications of blood sugar levels, then inject insulin into themselves—would benefit from an artificial pancreas.

Dr. Samuel P. Bessman, chairman of the USC Pharmacology Department, said Dr. Robert P. Schultz, a physical chemist laid off when McDonnell-Douglas closed its astropower laboratory at Newport Beach, provided the know-how which led to the breakthrough.

Bessman had conceived an idea for a sensor using a fuel cell to measure blood sugar. Fuel cells supply power for spacecraft such as the Apollo moonships.

Schultz had been working on fuel cells for use some day on extended space flights. But funding for that research and other projects came to an end and he and 150 others at the lab were laid off. USC hired him a month later as a visiting professor.

Bessman and Schultz said implantable artificial pancreases could be available in four or five years if researchers can get about $1 million for continued work.

"If we went at it from a systems engineering standpoint like they use in designing rockets, we could do it for the cost of a very small rocket," Schultz said.

The research at USC was conducted from pharmacology department funds without government help, Bessman said. Much work remains before an artificial pancreas will be available generally, the scientists said.

Bessman envisions a sensor the size of a sewing needle. An integrator measuring signals from the sensor and ordering a pump to release insulin would be the size of a lima bean. An insulin reservoir holding a three-month supply might be no larger than a thimble.

Bessman said it all could be implanted in the chest or abdominal cavity with a tube just below the skin into which new insulin supplies could be injected.

Library Directors Discuss Projects

HURLEY Stone House Day, July 10. Any one wishing to donate books or magazines may bring them to the library. The annual summer reading contest will start July 13. Mrs. Seymour Semiloff and Mrs. Joseph Prommer, librarian, will head the project.

The annual book sale will be held in conjunction with Old

Theme of the contest open to all children of the community in grade two through seven is Build Yourself a Library.

At the board meeting, a demonstration of the new sound system purchased for the library by the Hurley Lions Club was presented. The system includes a stereo turntable, two sets of earphones and a speaker. A complete selection of stereo records is available for listening at the library. Serving on the committee for the project were Dr. Stephen Scher and Alton Riley of the Hurley Lions Club and Robert Daley, Orlando Ingalls, Mrs. Kenneth Ticknor and Mrs. Semiloff representing the library trustees. The system was installed by Harvey Kronick.

Mrs. Richard Becker, chairman of the recent bake sale for the benefit of the library, reported on the success of the sale and thanked all those who donated goods.

Mrs. Kenneth Ticknor announced that many new best sellers are now available at the library and more are being added to the shelves regularly.

HURLEY LIBRARY FEATURE — The medium of sound has been added to the wide scope of educational and entertainment facilities available at the Hurley Library. A stereophonic audio system, donated by Hurley Lions Club, is now available for use during regular library hours. A large collection of all types of stereo records are available. Duvalier Is Mourned By Haitian Masses

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti 14 years. He died Wednesday night at the age of 64. Many sobbed as they came to the rose-bedecked casket containing the body of Duvalier. Some cried "Papa Doc!" and others kissed the glass cover of the coffin.

When guards locked the gates of the palace grounds at 5 p.m., an estimated 8,000 persons still waited in the humid, late-afternoon heat.

As a wind came up, cooling the sweltering streets of this port city, hundreds of persons were seen carrying sharply pressed suits, tailcoats or uniforms fresh from dry-cleaners, preparing for the funeral.

Hundreds of guards belonging to the notorious Volunteers for National Security, more well known as Tontons Macoutes, sat on the palace grounds or strolled nearby.

Thousands filed past the glass coffin containing Duvalier's body Friday to pay their last (bogyman), sat on the palace grounds or strolled nearby.

Two Get Adjournments, Charged With Burglary

KINGSTON
Two youths arrested on charges of burglary third degree after police said they caught them crouching under a counter in Sangi's Bowlero at 20 Cedar Street, pleaded innocent Friday before City Judge Hubert A. Richter and received adjournments until Monday.

Kevin John Bonesteel, of 351 Broadway, and Donald Louis Gulick, of 17 Jansen Avenue, both 17, were committed to county jail. They were accused of breaking the glass in a side door and entering the bowling alleys.

An unidentified resident called police headquarters about 2 a.m. yesterday and reported two men had entered the establishment, and two alert patrolmen sped to the area and took the pair in custody.

Acting Police Chief Julius Glassman expressed his appreciation to the anonymous caller and complimented him for alertness and timely report to police. "More people in the city should immediately call police headquarters when they hear suspicious noises or see prowling near business places," Glassman said. "In this way crimes could be quickly solved with arrests."

Council Slates Public Hearing

KINGSTON
The Common Council held a public hearing in Council Chambers at City Hall Thursday night on a proposal from the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency to sell a parcel of land in the Broadway East Project to St. Clare's Church.

No opposition was expressed and there were several speakers in favor including the Rev. James Childs, pastor of the church and Alderman Clifford G. Sinsbaugh (D-10th Ward) and Alderman Edmond J. Roux (R-Ninth Ward).

The meeting was chaired by Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo. The Council is expected to give its official approval to the proposal at its May meeting.

Police Still Seeking Rape Suspect

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON Darrell L. Neese, 26, of Red Hook, wanted for the gunpoint rape of a Bard College coed, has apparently eluded a State Police hunt in the wooded areas near this Dutchess County community.

State Police from Rhinebeck, Middletown and Hawthorne have combed the area since Thursday, at one point using a helicopter and bloodhounds. An official said today, however, that Neese has apparently eluded their grasp and that the manhunt "is not as intensive" as before.

Police still believe, however, that Neese may be in the Bard College vicinity. A Fishkill State trooper said today that there are a lot of old buildings and wooded areas where the fugitive may be hiding.

Neese, a former resident of Tivoli who attended high school in that community near Red Hook, allegedly assaulted a 19-year-old Bard co-ed at gunpoint. The girl's name is being withheld for security reasons.

Police believe that Neese had been camping out near Bard College since the alleged attack took place Wednesday afternoon on the Ward Manor property. On Thursday, troopers found a camp site, food, assorted cooking equipment and firearms believed to have been used by the ex-marine.

When last seen, Neese was wearing a camouflaged shirt, western style boots, a dark brown hat and was armed with a rifle. Persons having any information as to the whereabouts of the man are asked to call Rhinebeck State Police at 876-4033. All information will be kept confidential.

New Paltz State Batters End Losing Streak

NEW PALTZ
While folks around here argue about how many baseball games New Paltz State lost before picking up a victory Friday, Hawk Coach Pete Kramer is just happy with the knowledge that his team actually did win.

The score was 10-9 and the opposition was Oswego State which makes New Paltz undefeated in the State University Athletic Conference and when was the last time you heard that statement?

"Wow, what bats," Coach Kramer smiled after the Hawks bounced two Laker pitchers for 14 hits including three home runs. "This kind of hitting has been long over due and I'm really not too surprised because I saw that the team could hit when we scrimmaged on Long Island during Easter."

That the sudden offensive spurge came at a good time is obvious when it's noted that New Paltz pitchers Tommy Williams and Sandy Strauss were rocked for 11 hits, allowed 11 walks, and received little defensive help as the Hawks made five errors.

Two walks and an error gave Oswego two first inning runs putting the Hawks in an immediate hole. But New Paltz came right back in its half of the inning to score five big ones.

Mike Scammacca cracked a single to start things off. Charlie Silverberg followed with a base hit and then Joe Weber brought Scammacca home with a double. Vince Schettini's single produced two runs and set the stage for Joe DeRosa, who hit a towering fly down the left field line that didn't drop until it was beyond the 300 foot sign for a homer.

Oswego scored again in the second, but so did New Paltz. This time Scammacca hit for the circuit, his drive going some 320 feet to left center. Silverberg singled and stole second and he came in on Schettini's safety.

The upstate Lakers weren't through, however. Oswego scored once in the third and twice in the fourth off Williams, a soph from Rondout Valley High School, to keep the game close. 7-6. But the Hawks collected three more tallies in their half of inning four.

Silverberg was hit by a pitch, bringing up Weber. This time he unloaded for a homer to left. Schettini followed with a single. DeRosa walked, and Williams singled to finish the NP scoring.

Oswego capitalized on Hawk errors to pick up three in the seventh off reliever Sandy Strauss, but the Laker drive fell short.

Strauss got the win, going the last five. Williams pitched four, striking out four, walking five, and allowing seven hits. Strauss gave up four hits in his stint with six K's and an equal number of walks.

Bill Bryant was the loser for Oswego.

And about the now defunct losing streak. New Paltz was 0-2 this season and 0-11 last season. Hawk record keepers know that a win against Stony Brook in the 1969 season was the last for an NP diamond squad. They believe that in all, 22 straight games ended in defeat before Friday's win. Some people think 18 or 19 is more like it. At any rate, the streak is over.

The Hawks try to make it two and three in a row today when they host New York State Maritime College in a double-header.

Highland Zips Huguenots; Dukes, Ganders Win

NEW PALTZ
Lem Atkins coached Highland High School to the UCL football championship last fall, and now he's after the same goal with his baseball team.

The Big Blue, behind Bob Mattice's one-hitter, blanked New Paltz, 4-0, to keep a share of the Ulster County lead here Friday.

In other games, Marlboro kept pace with a 16-10 slugfest win over Pine Bush, and Rondout took care of Onteora, 13-0.

Wallkill beat Ellenville, 13-6, in a non-league title.

Jay Ackert's sixth-inning single was the only thing to ruffle Mattice, as the Highland thrower struck out eight and walked two in handing New Paltz its first league loss.

Highland scored three times in the second to give its pitcher all he needed. Phil Castano reached on an error, advanced on Bob Feasel's single, and both came in ahead of Keith Williams who homered.

The winners picked up another Marlboro but needed relief help in the seventh when Castano from Vin Manesse. Paul Lucysyn went all the way for Pine rano stole second, and scored on Bush and took the defeat.

Rusty Smith had a solo homer for the Bushmen.

Marlboro had six more runs wiped out when the game was called because of darkness after six and a half.

Rondout Valley, defending UCL champs, rebounded from a surprising loss to Wallkill on the strength of Mike Alecca's one-hitter.

Alecca fanned ten and received timely offensive support from Bruce Burr, who two doubles. Hy Van Wagenen, who blasted a first inning homer, and Bill Koslaski, who also had a round tripper.

Bruce Hurley was the loser for the winless Onteora team.

Tommy Sebald relieved.

"We're a young team," said Indian Coach Rod Patrick. "The kids are inexperienced and just not hitting the ball."

Patrick was impressed with

Rondout, now 1-2, saying, "they're a real good club."

Wallkill scored nine times in the first and Ellenville, despite five in its half of the inning, could never catch the Panthers.

Errors and walks were the biggest "kill" factors against the Ellies, 0-7 on the year. Wallkill had just eight hits.

Gary, Walther and George Drobot combined for the win. Bob Pensa took the loss.

Terry Sheeley had Ellenville's big hit of the game, a bases loaded triple.

John Jay Dumps Sawyers; Raiders Score

SAUGERTIES
Several sloppy moments proved disastrous for Saugerties High School's baseball team here Friday as the Sawyers dropped a 6-3 decision to John Jay in a DCSL Central Section game.

In a Bi-Valley contest, Red Hook had an easy time of it with Oakwood, trouncing the visitors, 24-3.

Saugerties made errors at the wrong moments and they often led to Jay runs in its tilt with the Dutchess County team. In Jay's three scoring innings miscues were prominent.

The visitors scored twice in the first when a passed ball by catcher Dee White allowed a strike out victim to reach base. A single, fielder's choice, error, and another fielder's choice gave Jay two runs.

The Sawyers got one back in the bottom of the first when Dave Smith doubled and was driven in by Rich Koegel's single. Koegel had three hits for the day.

But Jay put three more across the plate in the third using a walk, three hits, and a trio of errors to good advantage.

Saugerties got two back when Mark Salinovich walked, Smith singled, and White knocked them in with a hit, but it was no avail as Jay added an insurance tally in the seventh.

Bill Lynch and Carl Benzie shared mound duties for the winners. Craig Rolson went all the way and was charged with the loss for Saugerties, its first after two wins. The Sawyers are 1-1 in DCSL play.

Red Hook clubbed 15 hits and had a 12 run inning as it walked Oakwood to remain undefeated in the Dutchess County Section.

The Raider attack was led by Bill Reid, who had a three-run homer among his three hits Monday.

John Gallagher, who was two-for-two including a double; Bryan Becker, who had a triple; and Bill Mitchell, who had a double.

Jeff Thompson pitched four scoreless innings to get the win for Red Hook.

Coach Al Maffanda's Raiders are 3-0 in the DCSL and 5-1 overall. They go to Webutuck on

Steve Stones Pittsburgh Pirates

By United Press International
Trivia question! What former college batterymate of Yankee catcher Thurman Munson, a rising star in the American League, is making a name for himself as a rookie righthander in the National League?

San Francisco Giant manager Charlie Fox was quick to come forth with the answer—Steve Stone.

Stone, Munson's teammate at Kent State, has become the Giants' number three starter behind Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry despite the fact that he came to camp this spring as a non-roster player.

"He had one of the best

McLain Ejected — Is That All?

By United Press International
It only took Denny McLain 19 days of the 1971 baseball season to get into his first controversy in a Washington uniform.

McLain, the bad boy of baseball who was suspended three different times in Detroit last season before being traded, was ejected by umpire Art Frantz during the fourth inning Friday night when Milwaukee scored four runs to blank Washington 4-0.

McLain got into the dispute with Frantz after being ripped for a bases-loaded double by Dave May and a two-run, bases-loaded single by Roberto Pena. McLain, who had pitched hitless ball for the first five innings, flipped the ball into the stands in back of the Senators' first base dugout as he left the field.

Frantz said, "I warned him once about abusive language and when he used it again, I and they love it," he said.

McLain is likely to get a minor penalty—like a $50 fine—president when he gets my report."

"I wasn't using abusive language," McLain said, "but I used some after he threw me out. I didn't say anything nasty before that. I just said he was missing pitches. It was kind of building up through the whole game. The umpires are taking bread out of my mouth when they miss pitches."

McLain was backing up home plate on Pena's hit when he started jawing with Frantz again. As McLain started walking back to the mound, Frantz ejected him. "I thought the argument was over and then when I was four steps away, he tells me I'm out," McLain said. McLain was especially annoyed by a ball call on a 3-2 count to Mike Hegan in the fifth.

McLain said he also doesn't usually get in fights with the umpires. "I try to pitch a game and get it over within two hours and they love it," he said.

McLain is likely to get a minor penalty—like a $50 fine—president when he gets my report."

Steve Kline pitched a five-hitter and Bobby Murcer and Roy White hit towering homers as New York beat Minnesota, 4-1, in a game that was a 2-2 tie for eight innings. But Dave Johnson's second homer broke the tie in the ninth and triggered a six-run rally that won it for Baltimore.

Oakland made it six straight by downing the Tigers as Dick Green hit a three-run homer. Diego Segui pitched a six-hitter to gain the victory. Dean Chance went 4 1/3 innings and allowed three runs while taking the loss.

Ken Singleton ripped a 2-0 first into right field to score Tommie Agee in the 12th inning and give the Mets a win over the Cubs. Singleton also hit a two-run homer in the fourth inning as Nolan Ryan, making his first appearance of the season, picked up the victory.

In other National League with two shutout innings of games, Los Angeles shut out Cincinnati 3-0. New York Solo homers by Joe Lis in the downed Chicago, 7-5, in 12 eighth inning and Willie Montalimings. Philadelphia beat St. Louis in the ninth enabled the Cardinals, 8-6, and Montreal edged Phillies to defeat the Cards. Houston, 3-2. San Diego at Denny Doyle and Deron Johnson Atlanta was rained out.

Claude Osteen pitched a five Brandon picked up the win; all-hitter and Steve Garvey hit a loving two hits in four innings two-run double in the ninth of relief.

Inning to give the Dodgers the victory over the Reds. The Staub lined a two-run homer to victory was the third in five support the six-hit pitching of decisions for Osteen, who Carl Morton and Mike Marshall struck out three and didn't in the Expos win over his former teammates.

What Veterans Want Most

In winding down the war, provision should be made for a six-month stretch when the returned serviceman is trained for a job he can do and a place he can take in the work force of the nation he has served. For one thing the Vietnam veteran wants most on his return is a job. It is the single biggest issue he faces. Getting a job would take care of most every other problem he finds.

There are men and women in the administration thinking and working on the problem. Donald Johnson, a decorated World War II combat sergeant who now heads the Veterans Administration, said that 99 per cent of the returned veterans are going to adapt back into the mainstream of American life and become useful citizens. He calls them "a tremendous natural resource, an important and significant force," if for no other reason than their numbers. More than 2.5 million men were sent to Vietnam, where 45,000 died and 296,000 were wounded, some partially or wholly disabled.

Most want to forget the terrors and rigors they bore. The overwhelming majority are slipping back with comparative ease to civilian life. But the one per cent or less are a problem. They are giving the returned veterans a black name. Drugs, joblessness, the feeling that all the death and destruction have accomplished so little, that they were treated harshly, have made them a problem.

Under the GI bill, veterans are entitled to maximum unemployment benefits, an opportunity to complete their education if they want to return to high school or college, even a stake to buy a small business or a home. For many, this is enough to give them a start. Many men now independent have helped themselves with such GI benefits after both the Korean war and World War II.

The Viet veterans have been slow to use these benefits. Vietnam has been most untypical war and its veterans are proving untypical, too. This is why these men and women need more understanding, more help; why a grateful government should do even more to assure their place in civil life, with a stretch before discharge that will prepare them for a job; and a job that will be waiting for them when they finally doff their uniforms.

Last Big Farm Subsidy Crop

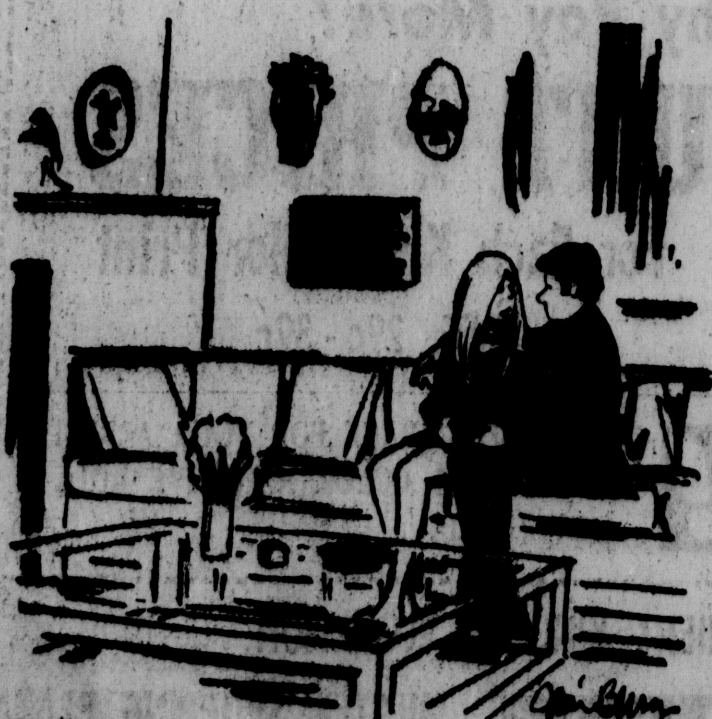

The Department of Agriculture, with its 1970 production figures, closed its books on the last crop in which it was obliged to pay almost limitless subsidies to growers of wheat, feed-grain, or cotton crops. They showed conclusively that most of the subsidy money went to a limited list of big farm producers, while the little fellows, whom the law was designed to help, fared very poorly indeed.

The total subsidy payments on the 1970 crop were $3.7 billion. Some 2,437,000 farmers benefited. Of these, 137,000 farmers received $5,000 or more, accounting for 45.3 per cent of the total payments. Among them were 23 farmers who received $500,000 or more, with nine receiving $1 million or more and J. G. Boswell Company of Corcoran, Calif., a cotton producer who has led the subsidy list for many years, receiving the single largest payment of $4.4 million.

The remainder of the money, about $2 billion, went to 2,300,000 small farmers, renters or part owners of small farms, none of whom received as much as $5,000. They will continue to receive their subsidies beginning with this year's crop. But the big fellows, including all but six of the 23 farmers who got more than $500,000 each, will not collect more than $55,000 each hereafter on each of his wheat, feed-grain or cotton crop.

The big farmers now will have to raise crops to earn their money, employing more people. What if there is a glut? Better raise more food than plowing it under or forcibly reducing our population.

The Call of the Open Road

David Lawrence Says District Courts Can Rule On School Construction

WASHINGTON—Far-reaching effects may be expected to ensue from the four unanimous decisions delivered by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger of the Supreme Court. These defined clearly the powers of the lower courts to deal with state-imposed segregation in public schools.

A most important consequence may arise in the field of schoolhouse construction, as cities and suburbs plan for the future. There is every intention, for example, according to the new decisions, to give authority to the district courts to rule upon the location of some of the new schools. The high court said:

"The construction of new schools and the closing of old ones is one of the most important functions of local school authorities and also one of the most complex. They must decide questions of location and capacity in the light of population growth, finances, land values, site availability, through an almost endless list of factors to be considered. The result of this will be a decision which, when combined with one technique or another of student assignment, will determine the racial composition of the student body in each school in the system."

"Over the long run, the consequences of the choices will be far reaching. People gravitate toward school facilities, just as schools are located in response to the needs of people. The location of schools may thus influence the patterns of residential development of a metropolitan area."

and have important impact on composition of inner city neighborhoods."

The Supreme Court declared that choices in this respect in the past have been used as a tool to maintain segregated school systems and that sometimes the authorities have closed schools "which appeared likely to become racially mixed through changes in neighborhood residential patterns."

Also, the court asserted that this has occasionally been accompanied by the building of new schools in the areas of white suburban expansion farthest from the Negro population centers so as to maintain separation of races. The high court stated that such an action does more than just simply influence the short-run composition of the student body and may well promote segregated residential patterns for a long time.

The Supreme Court said district courts may consider this in applying remedies. The high court asserted that local authorities and district courts have the responsibility "to see to it that future school construction and abandonment is not used and does not serve to perpetuate or re-establish the dual system."

As the four notable decisions are closely read, several things will be found therein which indicate what is ahead for the school system in the South. The Supreme Court, for instance, does not demand a rigid standard of racial balance. It said:

"The Constitutional command to desegregate schools does not mean that every school in every community must always reflect the racial composition of the school system as a whole."

The important thing that has just happened is that the Supreme Court has widened the power of the lower courts rather than abbreviated it. More flexibility thus can be exercised in endeavoring to work out with the local communities plans for desegregation.

It is significant that, in all the decisions, the court made clear that it was not dealing with "de facto" segregation, which prevails in various parts of the United States. Nor did it concern itself in any way with measures that certainly will be taken in the South to set up all-white schools with private management and support.

The Supreme Court has clarified the whole situation. It is apparent that if the South does not want enforced integration, it will have to resort to private schools. In the North, however, the school authorities will have to be careful to avoid any restriction on the education of colored students if they actually reside in districts where they apply for admission to a school attended by whites.

The new decisions of the Supreme Court will be helpful. They give the district courts virtually complete power to deal with all the various devices that have been used to continue segregation. Southern communities are now confronted with the real problems of enforced integration.

Active Centrist's Work Is Tough, Subtle and Intricate

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) In the world of practical affairs, the center is where it's at. But you won't find much glamor or easy excitement there, or many accolades for bravery.

You don't see any middle-agers carrying placards reading: "Cure the urban blight in 10 years" or "End racism in a generation." Slogans attract attention only if accompanied by the word "now."

Those who burn with urgency portray as the gutless wonder the "compromiser," the man in government and politics who qualifies his utterance, who says there may be more than one way, who bids for even a little time.

In some circles where ardor runs high, his name may be conspicuously absent when lists of political acceptables are drawn up. This is occurring right now, though to identify real figures here might seem to strip desired detachment from this general comment.

This kind of banishment is grossly unfair. Sometimes it hardly stops short of picturing the centrist as dangerously deficient in the high qualities a public man should offer. And it reflects serious misconceptions—often of particular men, nearly always of the process of practical action. Action aimed at moving a nation and a people comes mostly from the center, though the cries from left and right can and do affect its course and its tempo.

This is the toughest arena of social combat. It is the place where society's boiling conflicts and differences come crashing together and must be at least roughly resolved in programs of doing, bent toward declared objectives.

By definition the centrist is a man who wants to work in this arena, to solve problems, to make society move (though some public figures admittedly just hide there). And this man needs impressive credentials to gain credibility as a composer of conflicts and a prime mover.

To qualify, he must avoid the rigid, doctrinaire position. He must shun the declamatory utterance that brings him quick praise; but digs him in. From such fixed places he can't hope to move freely to left and right, to pull large numbers into common action.

The active centrist's work, then, is tough, subtle, intricate, always partly unsatisfying because achieving less than the goal. Yet it is the only kind of work, and of leadership, which can truly be described as "action."

Shouting from the trenches on left and right has its vital social and political uses, but the sounds waft away on the wind if there is no dedicated, grubby labor in the center.

For his many pains, the centrist is frequently demeaned, ridiculed, even reviled. He suffers tame and confused saying "Yes, but . . ." while his doctrinaire competitors proclaim "YES!"

The doctrinaire types see their own unequivocal declarations, infused with the urgent "now," as the proofs of shining courage. Often it does indeed take courage to break an old mold and make the first cry for change. But far more frequently it is the easy way, by contrast with the centrist's complex toil.

The proclaimer of principle, of unencumbered truth, lays it all out in beautiful black and white, very neat, very clean. He countenances no delay and suffers no nagging doubt. He knows what to do. But he doesn't often do it. Action mostly is left to others.

Those "others" are in the center, where the shells fall, where the battle sullenly pure principle. The centrist may look tattered and bewildered beside the brave knights standing clean in the galleries. But does anyone really want to insist he lacks courage?

Jack Anderson Says Kremlin Fears Red China Trying to Split U.S., Soviet

WASHINGTON—The Kremlin appears to be taken aback by the diplomatic Ping Pong between Washington and Peking.

Soviet diplomats have made anxious inquiries and expressed nervous alarm over the warming Chinese-American relations. There has even been a hint of panic in the private Soviet reaction.

The Russians have contended that the Chinese overtures to the U.S. are really aimed against Moscow. Some Russians have gone so far as to suggest in their private conversations that China seeks to promote a war between Russia and the U.S. which would destroy the two super powers. Then China would emerge from the ashes as the world's greatest power.

Some top Soviets apparently are convinced, for example, that Peking deliberately blocked Russian rail shipments across China to force the Soviets to ship their Vietnam supplies by sea in hope their ships would be bombed by the U.S.

The Chinese strategy, in their view, is to drive a wedge between Washington and Moscow, then to maneuver the two super powers into conflict. The Soviets suspect that, as part of this strategy, the Chinese are secretly conspiring with the U.S.

The word got back to the Kremlin, for example, that Peking had insisted last year that Chinese-American talks in Warsaw be kept secret from Russia. As far back as last June, Premier Chou En-lai told Polish diplomats that China hoped to resume contact with the U.S.

All this has made the Kremlin deeply suspicious of Chinese-American collusion.

Marijuana Story

The National Commission on Drug Abuse is about to swing into action with public hearings, but the man running the show is acting as if he's already hooked on his own pre-conceived ideas.

The commission is supposed to produce an authoritative report based on a staff investigation, plus expert testimony from all sides. But the commission staff director, Michael Sonnenreich, has told at least two people that he could "write the report right now." Although he denies saying he could write the report now and insists his mind is open, there is disturbing evidence he already has his mind made up and is simply going through the motions.

As staff director, Sonnenreich will have more to say than anyone about the report because the commission members are busy, distinguished men who have little time to devote to the matter.

When Sonnenreich was asked by the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws, a small but responsible group, for permission to testify at the hearings in Washington next month, he summarily refused.

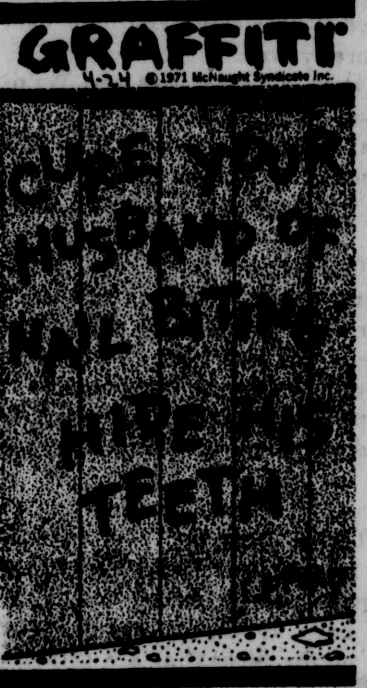

He told Keith Stroup, the organization's head, that the commission was interested in facts, not emotional appeals. Besides, he said, the hearing schedules were already complete, and there was no time available.

Stroup told him that former Attorney General Ramsey Clark had indicated a willingness to testify on behalf of the reform group. Would the commission be willing to hear Clark?

No, said Sonnenreich. Stroup argued that Clark had been in charge of the Justice Department when the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs was established. Wouldn't he have a contribution to make?

"I don't think Ramsey Clark has anything to add," Sonnenreich replied, according to Stroup.

Chinese Science Looks Westward

RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)

It was almost certainly no accident that one of Peking's able scientists was among those mentioned as casually meeting with the American table tennis team while it was visiting mainland China.

This scientist, according to the reports, was a jet propulsion expert at the California Institute of Technology quite some years ago. More recently, he has been reported as connected with Communist China's missile programs.

Messages this reporter received from Hong Kong in the past several years have emphasized the disillusionment of the Red Chinese in what they have learned from Russian science and technology.

For all the brilliant Soviet technical successes in space and in missile concepts, the reports indicate, Soviet science and its approaches to problems have not been quite what the Chinese technical men wanted. It is known that Chinese scientists returning from visits and from study in Russia have reportedly felt exceedingly dissatisfied.

Perhaps the problem is the extreme secrecy inherent in Russian science. Perhaps the suspicion between China and the Soviet Union have made communication difficult. Or it may be that many of Communist China's scientific leaders, trained in the United States or elsewhere in the West, feel more comfortable with the Western approach to technical problems.

Whatever the reason, contacts in the Far East repeatedly stress that China's scientists are pressing for closer relations with American and other Western scientists. There have been indications that Mao Tse-tung's political advisers have been sold on the importance of such contacts as aiding the growth of Chinese science and technology.

Peking has some brilliant senior scientists. But the country is reportedly extremely short in backup. Take off the top layer and the Chinese are lacking in men with broad experience.

Judging by reports, the talent is there in great measure. But what these younger men (and many of the older men) require is a chance to bat their concepts against the experience of first-rate men in the West. It is that type of exchange that this reporter's contacts in Tokyo and Hong Kong believe the Chinese want.

This is not to say that what Peking wants is close contact between the Chinese scientists and American table tennis players. But it is to suggest that Mao Tse-tung's government wants to use contacts built up with any American visitor as a means of securing for the scientists an invitation to visit the United States and eventually study here.

Favor No-Fault Auto Insurance

PRINCETON, N.J.—No-fault insurance, which promises to be a big issue in the months ahead and is already being debated in many state legislatures, wins an initial favorable vote from those Americans who presently understand this new insurance concept.

A national survey completed in early April shows that 42 per cent of all those interviewed say they have heard or read about the "no-fault" plan dealing with auto insurance. Only about half this number, however, can give a correct description of its main features and have reached an opinion about the plan.

Among this relatively small group (about one-fifth of the total adult population), opinion is 4-to-1 on the favorable side.

Details of Plan

Under the traditional "liability" system, drivers are held responsible for their own negligence and buy insurance against the claims of their victims.

The no-fault plan covers injuries and losses directly regardless of the cause of an accident.

Debate over the no-fault, no-litigation approach has embroiled many state legislatures, divided the insurance industry and aroused the militant opposition of the legal profession.

Federal and state officials who favor no-fault insurance say the result of such a plan will lower costs, more assurance of collecting, and a great deal less delay and litigation.

To obtain the results reported today, Gallup Poll interviewers talked in person to 1519 adults in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation. Interviewing was conducted April 3 and 4. This question was asked first:

Have you heard or read about the "no-fault" plan dealing with auto insurance?

Four in ten (42 per cent) answered in the affirmative. This group was then asked this question:

What is your understanding of this plan?

Those who had an understanding of the plan (19 per cent of the total sample), were then asked this final question:

Do you approve or disapprove of the no-fault plan?

Following are the results based on the total sample:

Opinion on No-Fault
Approve 15%
Disapprove 4%
Uninformed or undecided 81%
100%

Teens Go Tripping Off to Conferences and Competitions

FORENSIC COMPETITORS PRACTICE

KINGSTON 4-H on the 1971 New York City Home Economics recognition trip will be (l-r) Susan Eckert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Eckert of Tillson, Paul Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Robinson of Kingston, Kathy Steltz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Steltz of Flatbush, and Virginia Swart, daughter of Mrs. Gloria Swart of Flatbush. Mrs. Robinson (r) 4-H leader, will accompany the girls on the trip which will be held April 28, 29 and 30.

Carrying Kingston honors into the Forensic League Contest at Fishkill will be (l-r) Marta Whitten, Wanda Lo Bounty, and Patricia Huber. The girls will be in competition with other parochial schools from Dutchess and Orange Counties. Sister Barbara Mulloney (r) has been coaching the orators in preparation for today's debate session. French Students Conclude Visit With Coleman HS Hosts

FAREWELL AND OFF TO FRANCE

KINGSTON parts of the Eastern Seaboard. The purpose of their visit was to secure information on the economic and political aspects of government and business in this country. In connection with this serious side of the tour they had tea with Chief Justice Warren Berger in Washington and met with Assemblyman H. Clark Bell on a tour of the state capital in Albany. While in Albany, they observed the state legislature in operation and visited the state education department.

For their industrial study they toured General Electric in Schenectady and IBM at Poughkeepsie. Other visits included the Roosevelt Estate and Library at Hyde Park; NASSA, the FBI and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

They toured New York City, walked in the Fifth Avenue Easter Parade, visited Valley Forge and West Point, walked through Boston and were entertained in Providence.

Highlight of their tour was a four day home stay with hosts in the Kingston area. While here they participated in classes at Coleman which gave them an opportunity to really get to know their American contemporaries.

Their local hosts struggled with their store of high school French so as to communicate with their charming visitors who apparently had little trouble understanding English.

An after school get together Monday afternoon featured music by a Coleman group and good times all around. There is no language barrier in music and laughter.

It was with regret that Coleman hosts said goodbye Thursday morning. The visitors left Kennedy International Airport that night for their return flight.

RVHS Choral Concerts

KYSERIKE Rondout Valley High School is making music these days, but literally. Students are participating in the county festival today and making plans for the upcoming spring choral concert next month.

The Ulster County Music Educators Association's annual Choral and Orchestra Festival will be held at Marlboro High School today with the concert to be held at 8 p.m. The four county organizations which will be performing are the orchestra, the elementary chorus, the soprano-alto-baritone choir composed of seventh, eighth, and ninth graders, and the mixed choir of upperclassmen.

RVHS students who are to be members of the S-A-B Choir are Dawn Mapes, Andrea Brown, Nancy Mikalonis, Gail Youngen, Debra Thornton, Dawn Curran, Jennifer Cullen, Mary Nadra, towski, David Schoonmaker, Tim Harper, Eugene Jeffries, and Terry Morgan.

The public may attend the concert. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

The annual Spring Choral Concert at Rondout Valley Central High School will be presented Saturday, May 1, at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. There will be no charge for admission.

The major organizations to be featured include the RVHS Choral, the RVHS Choir, and the Kerhonkson third and fourth grade elementary choir.

The Choral will sing the Alleluia from Motet VI by Bach and Here On Earth, from Brahms' Requiem. In a lighter vein, the Chorale will do two Up With People numbers and two Moody Blues Chorale rock numbers.

The RVHS Choir will sing a Bach chorale, a French Folk song, a spiritual, a capella anthem, and a psalm that was sung by the Pilgrims. They will also do the popular selections Scarborough Fair, Feelin' Groovy, Let It Be, and Bridge Over Troubled Water.

The Kerhonkson Elementary Choir will sing I Want To Be Ready, Hush-A-Bye, and Some Folks Do. The Girls' Ensemble and the Barbershoppers will do several special selections.

Accompanists will be Rebecca Berg, Phyllis Spindler, and Mrs. Norma Kelly.

The RVHS Choirs have earned over $900 this year by selling candy and from concert proceeds. They have purchased new robes for the Chorale girls with this money. Next year they hope to earn enough money to outfit the boys. The Choir "inherits" the older robes. The May 1 concert will be the first time that all high school choir members will have robes.

The choirs and director Mrs. Barbara Lottridge hope that community residents will come out and enjoy an evening of music in celebration of National Music Week.

Environmental Teach-In Guest

RHINEBECK During the past week every one has been involved in some sort of ecology exercise in observance of Earth Week.

Throughout the area young people in particular have stressed good earthkeeping through cleanup and recycling projects. Earth Week doesn't end with dates on a calendar either.

Mark Sussin, vice president of the Ecology Club of the Rhinebeck High School, has been selected to represent Rhinebeck at the New York State Environmental Teach-In which is to be held in the chambers of the New York State Senate at Albany on Thursday, April 29.

This is the second annual Teach-In to be sponsored by Bernard C. Smith, chairman of the Committee on Conservation and Recreation for the State of New York. The morning session will be addressed by Governor Rockefeller and experts in the field of environmental conservation.

The afternoon session will consist of workshops where specific environmental management problems will be discussed by participating students.

Mark will be meeting with high school students from all over New York State and will have an opportunity to discuss first hand many of the problems facing us today concerning pollution. Gatherings such as this one assume importance since it is becoming increasingly clear that these problems will require much time and effort on the part of everyone.

Mark will report to the student body on his experiences in Albany. He will be accompanied to this meeting by Harvey Armstrong, biology teacher at the Rhinebeck High School.

TEEN SCENE: Diet Now for Beachwear Later

By LEI

If your first view of yourself in last season's beachwear was followed by a resolution to de-flab, you're probably sticking (or trying to stick) to a low calorie diet—hopefully one recommended by your family doctor. All too often, teens who have heard of calories but not nutrition start some bizarre diet that they read about in a book or magazine, or invented themselves.

Probably the most usual mistake teens make in planning their own diets is to make their daily 1200 calories taste as good as possible, with total disregard for the elements of nutrition. Bobby couldn't see any reason why he couldn't divide his daily calories into two Danish pastries and a couple of chocolate bars. He really did lose some weight. He also lost some teeth. The combination of all those sweets and the lack of calcium from dairy products would have been too much for elephant tusks! At the other extreme, Debbie thought that the faster she fit the shorts she longed for, the better. So for two weeks, all she ate were salads. She lost weight, all right—but she became so starved for something different (and sweet) that she staggered into a Stewart's one afternoon and ate six banana splits.

As you know—or should know before you start to diet—calories are units that measure the amount of energy you get from food. All foods are composed of three elements—fats, carbohydrates, and protein. How these elements are distributed does not have too much to do with how many calories are in the food, but they have a lot to do with how that food affects you and your bathing suit.

One reason dieters are urged to allow their doctor to choose their diet for them, is because he is qualified to make sure that the diet won't shortchange you of any of the vitamins and minerals you need. In general, Americans, whether dieting or not, tend to eat too much and not well enough—with the result they gain weight, while not getting enough calcium Vitamin A, or iron.

In addition, most people's diets are carbohydrate-heavy. Many overweight teens are practically addicted to carbohydrates. Milk-shakes, cake, ravioli, hamburger buns, baked beans, macaroni and cheese, and pizza make up most of their meals, and when they try to lose weight, they often do it by eating smaller servings of these same foods. Sometimes it works. Peoples' metabolisms differ. We all know people who can eat everything and still stay skinny. And some teens find that weight loss can be agonizingly slow even on a starvation diet of 900 calories—if the calories are mostly those carbohydrate-rich goodies. Some people need more carbohydrates than others in their daily activities.

If carbohydrates in excess can be dietary villains, proteins can be the guys in white hats. Since the body uses protein for growth, teens particularly need them. It has been recommended that teens get at least a bare minimum of 60 grams of protein a day. Oh no—not more counting! Well, it amounts to one whopping serving of protein at each meal. In short, a couple of soft-boiled eggs is a better breakfast choice than a bowl of cereal, milk, and sugar with the same number of calories. (Of course, you'll need to add fruit or juice and milk to complete the meal.) A cheese sandwich for lunch gives a protein serving—but if you leave those two carbohydrate-heavy slices of bread home—you can afford two more slices of cheese for the same calories! At dinner skip those mashed potatoes and gravy, and you can have a second serving of the chicken for the same calories.

Some "high-protein" foods are over-rated. A cup of plain yogurt at 160 calories has fewer than 7 grams of protein. A half can of drained tuna, while it has the same number of calories, has a whopping 25 grams of protein (and hopefully, no mercury!). Besides, it tastes so much better. Beans, nuts, and "enriched" cereals are relatively poor in protein, and top-heavy in calories and carbohydrates.

You will probably find that a protein snack satisfies you a lot longer than a sweet one. Substitute a hard-boiled egg for a candy bar or a slice of corned beef for a cookie, and the calories may come out the same, but you'll come out slimmer for it! If you crave sweets, a glass of diet soda, an apple, or artificially sweetened tea or coffee are better than candy.

You needn't worry about not getting enough carbohydrates, by the way. Fruits, vegetables, salads, and some dairy products you need in your diet in addition to protein are rich in natural carbohydrates, and a lot lower in calories than ice cream, Spanish rice, lemon cream pie, and whatever else you're tempted to cram your mouth with.

If you exercise your will power and yourself, in a couple months, that bathing suit will look great on you, and more importantly—you'll be looking great in it. Nutrition not only keeps you healthy, but it keeps you attractive, too.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony P. Valle, Ruby Road, Lake Katrine, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carolyn Marie, to Harold K. Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Wood, 101 Fairmont Avenue, Liverpool, N.Y.

Miss Valle, a 1968 graduate of Kingston High School, is now attending State University of New York at Albany where she is majoring in Mathematics and minoring in Italian and Business. She will be graduated in December.

Her fiancé is an alumnus of Liverpool High School, Class of 1968, and is also attending SUNY at Albany where he is majoring in Geography. He is a member of Kappa Tau Chapter of Gamma Theta Upsilon, International Geography Honorary Society, and will be graduated May, 1972.

An August wedding is being planned.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Smith of River Road, Tillson, announce the engagement of their daughter, Eileen Mary, to Robert J. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Miller, Old South Ohioville Road, New Paltz.

Miss Smith is a senior at Rondout Valley Central High School. Her fiancé attended New Paltz High School and is employed by a private contractor as a mason tender. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. McCullough of 289 Washington

Avenue, Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Ann, to Lawrence N. Carr, of Saugerties, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harland W. Carr of Northeast Harbor, Me.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Kingston High School and is employed by Ertel Engineering Company, Kingston.

Her fiancé, a graduate of Mt. Desert High School, Northeast Harbor, Me., and Southern Maine Vocational-Technical Institute, South Portland, Me., is employed by IBM, Kingston.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Jones of Cherry Hill, N.J., announce the engagement of their daughter, Carolyn Lee, to Bruce Gorty Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Helmut Miller of Morristown, N.J. and West Shokan. He is the grandson of Mrs. Patrick McGorty of Bellrose, L.I.

The future bride was graduated from Moore College of Art, Philadelphia, Pa. in 1965. She is Print Director-Stylist for Riegel Textile Corp., New York. On a sabbatical from college studies in 1962, she toured the United States and Canada performing with the "Ice Capades" and has served on the professional teaching staff at Wollman Rink, Central Park in connection with the city's skating program for under-privileged children.

Mr. Miller is a 1963 graduate of Johns Hopkins University and was awarded a Masters Degree in Business from the University of Chicago. He is an investment banker with the firm of Reynolds & Co., New York City.

A May 8 wedding is planned in New York, followed by a wedding trip to Spain.

Mrs. Richard F. Ryerson, 490 Ulster Avenue, Port Ewen, announces the engagement of her daughter, Diane Jean, to Clifford R. Carson, son of Mrs. William A. Carson, Long Beach, Calif.

The bride-elect is a 1967 graduate of Kingston High School and is employed by Franz House of Beauty, West Hurley.

Her fiancé is an alumnus of polytechnic High School, Long Beach, and Long Beach City College, Class of 1964. He served with the U.S. Marine Corp. including a tour of duty in Vietnam. Mr. Carson is employed by IBM as customer engineer.

The wedding will take place on September 12.

Her fiancé is an alumnus of Kingston High School and has served four years with the U.S. Air Force. He is employed by C.B. Strain and Son, Inc., Kingston.

A July 31 wedding is being planned.

Judith Seale Weds Barry J. Greco in Veteran

MRS. BARRY J. GRECO
(Lakeside Studio)

Miss Judith Seale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Seale of Cherry Lane, Saugerties, became the bride of Barry J. Greco, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Greco of Route 5, Saugerties, Sunday, Apr. 18 at St. John the Evangelist Church in Veteran.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. Reardon officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Roland Tonnesen, organist provided traditional wedding selections. Baskets of pink and white gladioli and chrysanthemums decorated the altar and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white chiffon fashioned with a high neckline, long full sleeves and a bodice appliqued with Venice lace motifs. Her blush pink cathedral length mantilla was draped to a Camelot cap trimmed with matching lace motifs. She carried a stylized cascade of pink and white carnations, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Mrs. Michael McCarthy of Saugerties was matron of honor for his sister in a gown of azalea pink polyester voile fashioned with long sleeves. She carried a white fireside basket of pink and white pompons, miniature carnations and baby's breath.

Attendants were Mrs. Alexander Sharpe III, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Bruce Mauro and Mrs. Dennis Cassell. Their gowns were identical in styling to that of other attendants. They carried white fireside baskets of pink pompons, miniature carnations and baby's breath. Lisa Seale, niece of the bride, was flower girl in a gown of white polyester voile fashioned with short puff sleeves. She carried a miniature white fireside basket of pink and white pompons, miniature carnations and baby's breath.

Thomas Greco of Glasco was best man for his cousin. Ushers were Alexander Sharpe III, brother-in-law of the bridegroom; Bruce Mauro and Dennis Cassell. Sean McCarthy, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

A reception for 150 guests was held at the Flamingo Restaurant.

For her wedding trip to the West Indies, the bride selected a pink pantsuit with matching pink cape and white accessories. She wore a white orchid corsage.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1967, attended Colonna Beauty School and is employed at Britt's Beauty Salon. Her husband, a graduate of Saugerties High School, St. Bernadine of Siena College, and Computer Careers, is employed at IBM as computer operator.

Mr. and Mrs. Greco will reside at Glasco.

CONCERT SOLOISTS — Ulster County Community College Chorus will present a Concert of Chamber Music Sunday, April 25 at Holy Cross Episcopal Church, 30 Pine Grove Avenue, Kingston. Also appearing will be Hudson Valley Philharmonic Chamber Players. Conducted by Richard Olsen, associate professor of Music at UCC, the concert will feature the Missa Brevis in F by W. A. Mozart; excerpts from baroque cantatas; and instrumental music by Antonio Vivaldi. Soloists will be (L-R) Eileen Marchetti, Hurley, contralto, a 1970 Kingston High School graduate; James Manuel, Woodstock, tenor, a second year student from Woodstock; Rita-Mary Senor, Kingston, contralto, a 1970 KHS graduate; and Carol Gates, Lake Katrine, soprano, a 1970 KHS graduate. Another soloist will be Stephen Davis, bass, a 1970 Rondout Valley High School alumnus. Mrs. Evelyn Hopkins, UCC Chorus accompanist, will act as organist. The Hudson Valley Philharmonic Chamber Players, a nine-member string ensemble will appear through a grant from the New York Council on the Arts. The public is invited to the concert and to a reception afterwards in the church fellowship hall. (Freeman photo by Krueh).

Catskill Glee Club Concert Scheduled Monday Evening

The Catskill Glee Club will present a concert at the Stone Ridge Methodist Church on Monday evening, Apr. 26. The well-known male chorus, which annually presents a number of concerts in the Hudson Valley - Catskill Mountain area, will complete its 44th season next month.

The club is under the direction of Donald S. Fellows with Barbara Sparks as accompanist.

Soloists for the Stone Ridge program include John Mc-Cullough, tenor, of Kingston and Kenneth Baumgartner, baritone, of New Paltz.

The Catskill Glee Club will present a solo group in the Mass Male Chorus Concert at Kingston, High School on Saturday evening, May 1. The annual Spring Concert of the organization is planned for Tuesday evening, May 25, at the First Reformed Church, Catskill.

Tickets for Monday's concert may be purchased at the door.

Communion Supper

Deadline for reservations for St. Mary's Altar-Rosary Society's Communion Supper will be Sunday, Apr. 25. The event will be held Sunday, May 2 at the Capri '400' Restaurant in Port Ewen after 5:15 p.m. Mass in St. Mary's Church.

Mrs. Virginia Ellis and Mrs. Mary Bradley are in charge of tickets.

Lutenist to Appear at UCCC

Chris Coover, a lutenist, will appear Tuesday, April 27, at the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College to present a Lute Workshop.

The Workshop will be held in Room 626 in the Jacob Hardenbergh Building from 3 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. The Workshop, sponsored by the Student Government Organization, is open to all persons interested in the lute and lute music. There is no registration fee.

Mr. Coover has requested those attending the Workshop to bring along recorders, krumphorns, or other renaissance instruments.

His appearance at UCCC, has been made possible through a grant from the New York Council on the Arts.

Chamber Music at West Point Sunday

The music of Mozart and Dvorak will be featured in a chamber music concert presented at 3 p.m. Sunday in North Auditorium of Thayer Hall by the West Point Band.

Specialist 5 James Setapen, a native of Mt. Kisco and graduate of the Eastman School of Music, will conduct Mozart's "Serenade No. 12 in C Minor" and Dvorak's "Serenade, op. 44, in D Minor."

The concert is free and open to the public.

Copycat Upsetting to Family

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: The lot adjoining ours was sold, and now we find that the people who bought it are putting up a house identical to ours! We are extremely unhappy about it because ours is a very expensive home and this is not the kind of neighborhood where all the houses look alike.

We can't understand why the builder would do this, and we are also wondering what kind of people would want a house exactly like the one next door when there were so many beautiful plans to pick from.

I do not consider this a compliment, and I feel a strong resentment every time I look at the house going up.

Any major revisions in our home would be out of the question, and so is moving. Can you offer some advice to ease our headache?

PORTAGE, PA.

DEAR PORTAGE: You can't keep people from copying you, but you CAN change the appearance of your home so drastically that no one would ever recognize it as the same plan.

First plant a high hedge between your home and the copycats. Then landscape your property as individually as you can. You can add much warmth and coziness to your home by using Boston ivy in abundance. The end result may so delight you that being copied may turn out to be a blessing in disguise. (P.S. Get acquainted with your new neighbors as soon as possible, and let them know why you are changing the appearance of your home, or they might copy your charming camouflage, too.)

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will not think my question is too dumb to answer. Can a virgin have a baby? NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: No question, asked in sincerity, is too "dumb" to answer. And the answer to your question is YES!

Rosendale Vols to Host Annual County Convention

ROSENDALE Town of Rosendale Firemen's Association embracing six volunteer companies this week announced arrangements for the July 22-24 convention of Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Hosts for the 36th annual convention will include Bloomington, Binnewater, Cottekill, High Falls, Rosendale and Tillsen Fire Companies, collectively sponsoring the event under their organizational title, Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Peter W. Zegel, general chairman, reports that the committee has so far made tremendous progress on all phases of the annual affair. The convention will open with the annual banquet and show at the Chateaux Lounge, Route 32, Rosendale on Thursday evening July 22nd. The annual entertainment will conclude the evening, with refreshments being served afterwards at the Rosendale firehouse. In order to obtain tickets for this affair, the purchaser must be a member in good standing of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. Tickets are currently available through the committee and at the regular monthly meetings of the county group. Deadline for obtaining tickets is June 15.

Maurice Crookston of Rosendale is the banquet chairman, with William Ferry of Tillsen and Robert Sheehan of Rosendale co-chairmen.

On Friday evening, July 23, the annual business meeting of the County Association will be convened at the Rosendale firehouse at 8 p.m. Included on the agenda with the regular business will be the annual reports of association officials and committees, as well as election of officers for the coming year. Merrill Williams of Ellenville, currently serving as first vice president, is expected to be elected to the presidency to succeed Crookston of Rosendale, who will complete his term in July.

Therefore, according to tradition, since each president's home company hosts the annual convention during his tenure, Ellenville is anticipated as the scene of the 1972 convention.

Following the business session, refreshments will be provided in the firehouse by the Ladies Auxiliary, Active Hose Company. Dennis Crookston of Rosendale is serving as chairman of the refreshment committee, with Matthew Liggan of Binnewater as co-chairman.

On Saturday, July 24th, the convention will be climaxed with the annual fireman's parade, scheduled to start promptly at 4 p.m. in the village of Rosendale. Preliminary arrangements reveal the parade route to be approximately two miles, with the entire distance composed of level, hard surfaced road. The parade will disband at the Bianco Villa where refreshments will be served and 38 trophies will be awarded at 8 p.m.

To date, applications have been received from over 35 Ulster County fire companies, with additional entries being received daily. Likewise, there are over 20 musical units slated to participate. Also, several guest departments, invited from surrounding counties, are expected to be in the line of march.

Andrew Ellsworth, who has been a member of the Active Hose Company of Rosendale for 63 years will be the parade's grand marshal. This year the Active Hose Company will celebrate its 75th anniversary. Judges, parade regulations, line-up, and all further details will be announced. Parade chairman is Erik Reich of Rosendale chairman of the refreshment committee.

Albert Morelli of Rosendale is the assistant general chairman, and handling various other phases of the convention are: Herbert Faurote, Alan Tyler and Charles Peterson of Bloomington; Michael Doris, John Liggan of Binnewater; and Donald Anderson of High Falls.

A FLASH WINNER — The Finn Flash, school newspaper of the Sophie G. Finn elementary school, has been awarded a second place rating in the 47th annual contest of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. Some of the winners of the award were (L) Kelly Anderson, inquiring reporter; Mark Anderson, co-editor; Chris Purdy, art editor and Susan Myers, library news. Miss Donna L. Zucca is faculty advisor for the young school journalists. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Power Pool Restructuring Listed

POUGHKEEPSIE The New York Power Pool organization has been restructured, reported Althouse, "to provide for greater coordination of its many activities and to provide for increased emphasis on creative planning, including full consideration of environmental values."

The pool agreement, originally executed in 1966 and recently amended by the pool's eight member systems, provides for the creation of an Executive Committee, supported by an Executive Director. The amended agreement also provides for a full-time planning staff, under the direction of a Planning Manager, to develop and coordinate the intermediate and long-range expansion of the pool's interconnected electric system.

The Executive Committee, comprised of senior officers of the pool members, will determine policy on matters within the scope of the agreement and review and direct the activities of the NYPP Operation and Planning Committees. Francis E. Drake Jr., board chairman and chief executive officer of Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation, is chairman of the NYPP Executive Committee.

Thomas C. Duncan has been appointed executive director of the New York Power Pool. In addition to acting as liaison between the executive committee and other pool committees, Duncan will administer and coordinate the activities of the operating and planning committees. Mr. Duncan, a graduate of Cornell University and an electrical engineer, recently retired as executive vice president of Consolidated Edison Company of New York, Inc., after 43 years of engineering, operating and management experience.

The NYPP executive offices are located in New York City while the pool's power control center is located at Gunderland, near Albany.

Jerald V. Halvorsen of Oyster Bay, N.Y., has joined Mr. Duncan's staff in New York City to coordinate environmental matters for the New York Power Pool. Mr. Halvorsen holds a master's degree in public health from the University of Michigan.

Carl E. Asbury, an electrical engineer and a graduate of the University of Illinois, is the new ly appointed planning manager for the New York Power Pool. He was formerly assistant to the president of Southern Services, an organization providing engineering and planning services to four utility companies in four southern states.

In 1969, Asbury was selected "Engineer of the Year" by engineering societies in the Birmingham, Alabama, area. He has been responsible for many administrative and technical developments in the power industry for over 30 years. His experience includes the organization and supervision of planning activities for bulk electric power facilities, and load forecasting for a large power pool operation.

Asbury participated on the Federal Power Commission Technical Advisory Committee, responsible for developing a methodology of load forecasting for the electric power industry. The NYPP planning manager and his staff will be located at the Power Control Center.

John R. Vogel Jr. has served as operating manager of the New York Power Pool for the last four years. He directs the operation of the pool's Power Control Center, which is staffed by 57 employees drawn from member systems.

The Power Control Center coordinates the operation of the generating and transmission systems of pool members to achieve optimum reliability of service and efficiency of operation for the benefit of customers served by members of the pool.

Driver Cited After Accident

HIGHLAND Following a two-car collision on Route 9W near this community Thursday, Augustine L. Passante, 47, of Hasbrouck Avenue, here, was cited by Highland State Police for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Passante appeared before Lloyd Town Justice Lewis DiStasi who adjourned hearing until Tuesday.

Trooper G. C. Henne reported Passante drove his car from a parking lot of a Route 9W diner and was in collision with a vehicle operated by Philip Goldberg of 30 Church Street, New Paltz.

Police noted that Passante refused to submit to a chemical test.

Harmony Week Celebration SPEBQSA Membership Night Program

KINGSTON have one thing in common— all enjoy singing. The Kingsmen have appeared at singing engagements throughout the Kingston area at various club functions and fund-raising activities. They have appeared in competition in Montreal, Hartford, Springfield, and other cities in the Northeastern District. They meet every Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the V.F.W. hall on Delaware Avenue.

All men above the age of 18 years are invited with their wives to attend. It is not necessary to read music to become a member of the chorus. All that is required is that members enjoy singing and can carry a tune. Refreshments will be served during the evening.

Anyone wishing further information about the "Membership Night" may contact the chapter president, Norman Franz.

Third Library Film Program In Experimental Series

KINGSTON Kingston Area Library will hold its third experimental film program Wednesday, April 28, at the Children's Library. The films are for junior and senior high school students and adults, and will be shown at 3:45 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. The public is invited, and there is no admission charge.

This month's program will begin with Jazzoo. Photographed in color at the St. Louis Zoo, the film joins striking visual images and a lively, original jazz score to create a spectrum of moods, shapes, and textures. Black belt experts demonstrate karate in a film titled Empty Hand. It has won 10 major international film awards.

Another award-winning film is Happy Anniversary, a humorous parody on traffic problems in France. The film combines pantomime with music and sound effects and was an academy award winner for the best live action short subject.

Two additional short films will be included in the program— It's About This Carpenter, and Refiner's Fire. The former was filmed in New York City and depicts a modern-day carpenter's experiences as he delivers a cross from Greenwich Village to an uptown church. Refiner's Fire is an animated, abstract ballet about the conflicts between an established society and some of its idealistic members who discover and preach a new truth.

Your Horoscope

Sunday, April 25

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening to concentrate upon spiritual activities that interest you. Make a special point not to let any pressing problems bother you. Show that you are one who is considerate of others and willing to go out of your way to place charm in your surroundings.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you resort to arguing you may wind up behind the eight-ball where an important matter is concerned. A good day to purchase something that gives you much pleasure. Avoid gossip.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you follow your intuition today you can get into the right kind of recreation that is most pleasing. Being more concerned with the romantic is fine. Look for the right persons who can increase your happiness.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try not to get into an argument between a close tie and a financial advisor or you will be the one to lose out. Go out with fascinating friends later and have fun. Don't be too talkative.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Engage in activities that relieve tension and do something of a civic nature as well. Don't fret about a small and insignificant matter. Show that you have your feet firmly on the ground.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Using the right principles can now help solve a problematical affair in a most intelligent way. Showing that you are a conventional acting person is wise. Forget all that temper.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be sure not to come under the influence of an unconscious person and suffer a big loss. Listen to what trusted friends have to suggest instead. Take it easy tonight and go to bed early.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Use your intuition when entertaining friends and make this a delightful day. Don't let a private anxiety bother you so much. Then you can get into a situation that pleases.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try not to lose your temper with one who can be quite irritating today. Show that you understand instead. Domestic tranquility is important right now. Reach a better agreement with an associate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Doing something of a thoughtful nature for one who has been particularly loyal to you brings excellent results. Show co-workers you appreciate favors they have done in the past. Go over personal accounts tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you have an invitation you like, accept it and get away from pressures that you are under. If you use that smile more, you gain favors you want. Assist one who needs help.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Affability is your best bet now, since taking up any controversial subjects at home could start a terrific rumpus. Stop worrying about a new plan you have in mind. Start wheels rolling in right direction as soon as possible.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Renewing your faith through the study of right tenets is wise today, and preferably in the morning. Then go out and visit with friends and relatives you have not seen in a long time. Have delightful and helpful conversations.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people who should gleefully take to artistic, musical, moral and religious training. Be sure to give as much of these cultural teachings as you can early in life, or unhappy events could develop. Any profession that permits your child to help others to have an adventuresome experience is good.

Monday, April 26

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An unusually good day to call to the attention of others practical ideas you have in mind and to let them know what they can do to help you and how you can help them. A smile will smooth the way.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Improve property, then get advice from an expert on monetary matters. Show your admiration for this person. Use your energy wisely for best results.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Although recreation is on your mind now, plan some time for an important business matter as well. Do whatever will add to your personal charm. You can make your life far more satisfying than it is now by channeling energies wisely.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Contact experts for information on how you can commercialize talents. Evening good for romance. Try not to be too extravagant.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A dynamic friend will go along with your ideas gladly provided you are willing to listen to advice offered. Being social and making new and worthwhile friends will be an asset to you in the future.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you do efficient work today, you make the right impression on bigwigs and can increase benefits. Do something important of a civic nature. This is just up your alley.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) By going out socially you find you get excellent ideas from persons you meet that can be put in operation to your benefit. Take loved one with you and make a fine impression. Don't get into any altercations with others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan some time for that hobby that pleases, both yourself and kin and have fun at it. Put in an efficient day's work first, though. Something of an emotional nature should be expressed now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Come to a better agreement with associates, whether in business or otherwise. You are able to reconcile with one from whom you have been estranged for a long time. Show that you are in a cooperative mood.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Forget all that folderol and busy yourself with the bustling world of activity and make real progress there. Set up appointments early. Show much affection to mate and you receive fine response.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Analyze the situation at home thoroughly and then go ahead and do whatever increases harmony and prosperity there. Study that new interest well and proceed with caution. It may not be exactly what you want after all.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have to make certain contacts first, before you can come to a perfect understanding with associates. Outline some new modus operandi you want to put in motion with persons who could be vital to its success. Take it easy tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who has a natural understanding of finances and knows how best to put talents to work for an excellent income. There is a fine personal presence here and your son or daughter will make a splendid impression on bigwigs and key persons in business, so slant the education along lines of merchandising, business of any kind, and the life becomes an affluent one. Teach right ethics while young.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for May is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast (name of newspaper), Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

Opening lead—♦ Q

East didn't have much defense, but passed in accordance with the well-known principle of bidding that when you do preempt you leave future action to your partner.

West had a pretty good plan of defense. He opened the queen of diamonds with the intention of grabbing the first club lead and putting his partner in with a spade. It was a good idea and would have worked except that South had been around a long time and had a pretty good idea of just what West was up to.

If South could only get to his hand he could take a heart finesse, discard his singleton spade on the ace of hearts and make an over-trick, but South could not execute this nice plan.

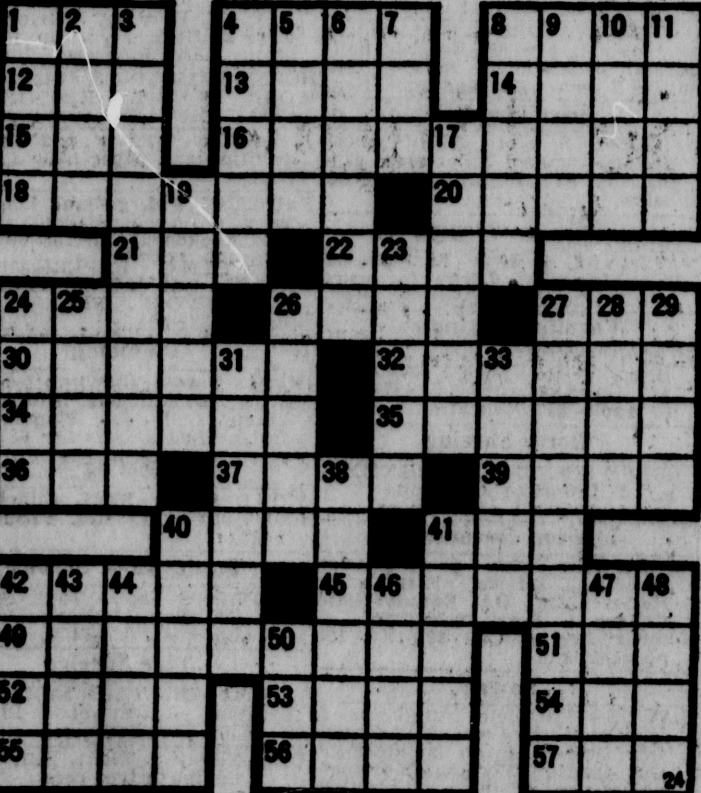

See if you can find how South foiled West's plan. It wasn't too complicated.

He simply cashed dummy's ace of hearts at trick two and followed up with the queen of hearts on which he chucked his singleton spade. West took his king, but now there was no way for him to get his partner on lead.

Some Hollywood Impressions

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The agent to find somebody to use the non-commercial network, "Poet Game," recently shown on the non-commercial network, was written by Anthony Terpiloff, a former Hollywood writer now living in Wales. The play concerned a hard-drinking, mid-decade Irish poet trying to straighten out his personal life while on an American lecture tour.

Through the "Hollywood Television Theatre," which produced his play, I asked Terpiloff if he would care to send along some recollections of his time in Hollywood. Following is part of the reply he cabled:

"I was old enough to know what I was doing when I came to Hollywood. My idea was to make the most of it and be only as cynical and disillusioned as I had to be. Like a soldier going into battle convinced that everyone else can be killed but himself, writers go to Hollywood saying 'I'll take the money and run--God is on my side and also my talent.'"

"I went because I was sent for, paid for and loved every cliché of it. You can't cry rape when you know what's going to happen. My greatest complaint was that it didn't happen often enough. Some good fairy kept me from it. Hollywood's not a harem. Nobody forces you to stay. In fact, it's hard to stay there and make money. A good half of professional writers earn nothing in given years. Another great percentage get by on handouts for story ideas which are given to other writers or abandoned."

"I jumped into Hollywood enthusiastically and got unexpected benefits and unexpected damages: You know, brain, liver, stomach, morale. I found love, if not fame and fortune. I got out, so no complaints. I wanted to be used. I told my ducer of the 'Hollywood Television Theatre'... is a creative commercial career 10 years earlier. Hollywood is no trap. Somehow I knew when I could stand it no longer I'd make my way out just as I'd made my way there in the first place. Presumably if you're a genuine playwright, you playwright wherever you are. Any damage done not ridden out on the rail. Given a ticket to London by Freed-oneself. Done by neglect, man, I had the good sense to willful, calculated neglect."

"You're there to sell your services, as it says in the contract. You have to come up with current, acceptable, salable ideas that sound great in story conferences. In my clever later years I brought a tape recorder to conferences that lasted for hours, then got my wife to type a transcript. I couldn't stand to read it so I'd ask: 'Could you boil this down to a paragraph--or, better yet, one sentence, and then would you read it to me?'"

"In Britain the audience is not deprived. Television companies take a play and, for the most part, produce it as written. Lewis Freedman (producer of the 'Hollywood Television Theatre')... is a creative commercial career 10 years earlier. Hollywood is no trap. Somehow I knew when I could stand it no longer I'd make my way out just as I'd made my way there in the first place. Presumably if you're a genuine playwright, you playwright wherever you are. Any damage done not ridden out on the rail. Given a ticket to London by Freed-oneself. Done by neglect, man, I had the good sense to willful, calculated neglect."

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Freeman City Hall Reporter

MRS. AMELIA NUGENT of the Irondequoit School Board wasn't quite what we had expected in the way of a guest speaker at WHITA's candidates night, Thursday.

Perhaps we've become jaded by too many political campaigns, but we were looking for something like "we must provide the best possible education for our children at the lowest possible cost." Or "our children are our most important asset." Or, "today's children are tomorrow's leaders." In short, we expected to hear what everybody already knows.

What we heard was a scathing attack on tweedle-dee-tweedle dum "homogeneous" school boards which we've never heard before in this area.

Mrs. Nugent should know what she's talking about. She's been a teacher, a protesting taxpayer and finally (two years ago) a successful candidate for a school board position.

Mrs. Nugent opened up by giving her opinion on what a job on the school board (any school board) should NOT be. "The job is not an honor position," she said. "It is not a status position where you get to play bridge with the superintendent."

If there's anything wrong with the school system, Mrs. Nugent asserted, it's the fault of the school board. And the ultimate blame lies with the residents of the school district, who by their apathy allow the school board to operate in "its own little world."

Mrs. Nugent came out strongly against "yes" men or women on the school board who go along with every proposal from the administration. She urged school board members to set the pattern. "You know what you want. Make them do it."

The guest speaker also had some suggestions on how to scuttle executive sessions, something for which the Kingston School Board is infamous for. "We just tell the majority (her taxpayer group is a minority of three on a nine-member board) that we'll discuss publicly anything they discuss in executive session."

Speaking on salary negotiations with teachers and other staff, she said, "People should know what the teachers are asking for so they can contact their school board members and express their views."

The whole speech had one central theme: that school boards are elected by the people to work for the people and communication is a dual responsibility.

Mrs. Nugent makes a lot of sense. It's too bad she isn't running in this year's election.

SIDE BARS—Ted Weiner, one of the candidates, displayed a deft sense of humor, drawing big laughs on two occasions. On one occasion, after a burst of applause for one of his statements, Weiner quipped, "It's a good thing my relatives showed up."

The other occasion came when Weiner took the podium after being preceded by Joe Feraca, a city detective, and Ward Todd, a radio news director. "That's a tough act to follow," Weiner said. "A cop and a newsman. I'll either get arrested or bad press."

It was a reunion of sorts for Josh Randall of WGHO and Mrs. Nugent. She was Josh's teacher in the eighth grade.

Mrs. Nugent managed to pre-empt most of Todd's prepared remarks but Todd had enough left to draw a good round of applause.

Feraca looked nervous but gave a speech that was warmly accepted.

Two people you don't invite to the same party: Marianne Darrow and Evelyn Corsones, both school board members. Mrs. Corsones, seeking reelection, read her prepared remarks and then asked to be excused to attend a meeting on school buses between the board and the city.

The first hand up in the audience during the rebuttal session was from Mrs. Darrow asking that Mrs. Corsones be brought back from the meeting to answer questions. Mrs. Corsones returned and had a few choice words for Mrs. Darrow.

Mrs. Corsones apparently also took exception to Mrs. Nugent's remarks about school boards. She pointed out that it cost the taxpayers some $45 less per pupil to educate their children in Kingston compared to Mrs. Nugent's district. It was, as they say, a rather neat dig.

The disappointing turnout (only about 125 people) didn't seem to impress with Beverly Sleight's secretary reading his prepared statement. It was explained that Sleight was out of town on business. The statement, however, was Sleight's speech five years ago when he first sought the office.

One can look at that either one of two ways: Either Sleight hasn't changed in five years or Sleight was such a good candidate five years ago that there was no room for improvement.

The challengers are hoping for a larger turnout than last year when only 2,109 people bothered to vote for a field of six candidates. Compare that with the almost 12,000 people who voted in the city of Kingston alone for mayor in 1969.

A low turnout tends to favor the incumbent but all signs point to a comparatively heavy vote this time: like maybe 4,000 people. Which is awful. Which maybe says something about Mrs. Nugent's theme of communication between the board and the people.

McCloskey's Charges False Says Roman Catholic Priest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Roman Catholic priest who interpreted for Rep. Paul N. McCloskey in Laos took issue today with the California Republican's charges that the United States had "pursued a program of deliberately destroying Laotian villages."

The Rev. Matt Menger, director of Catholic Relief Services in Laos, said McCloskey's charges were not true. He also asserted that McCloskey was mistaken in assuming that American bombing was responsible for a large proportion of the 300,000 refugees in Laos.

Menger, pastor of the Immaculate Church in Ventiane, has been in Laos for 15 years. An interview with him was arranged by administration officials who suggested that he talk to a UPI newsmen.

McCloskey has said he may key his charges were not true. He run against President Nixon in also asserted that McCloskey's Republican presidential primary

Nixon Names Flemming to Post

Arthur S. Flemming, a Kingston, N. Y. native who served in the administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, has been named by President Nixon as chairman of the 1972 White House Conference on Aging.

Flemming, 65, has already played a key role in planning for the conference to be held in Washington in November. The expected 3,000 delegates will try to find ways to solve problems of the elderly during the sessions.

Flemming's appointment was announced a short while after he met with Nixon, NEW Secretary Elliott Richardson and John Martin, the Commissioner on Aging.

Martin will serve as director of the forthcoming sessions later this year.

Currently, Flemming is president of Macalester College in St. Paul, Minn. Last November he was reelected as a member of the Board of Directors of both Save the Children Federation (SCF) and its cooperating agency, Community Development Foundation (CDF), headquartered as voluntary agencies in Norwalk, Conn.

Announcement of the appointment of Flemming to the board of SCF and CDF was made by E. C. Kip Finch, chairman of the boards of both non-profit voluntary agencies, which exist to help themselves to a better life.

Dr. Flemming is the son of the late Surgeon General and Mrs. Harry H. Flemming and has gained national prominence in a variety of high governmental, church and education posts in recent years.

Dr. Flemming is an experienced and nationally known educator and government worker. He began his career as an instructor of government at American University in 1927. Professional academic post that followed included director of the school of Public Affairs at the American University, executive officer of American University, and the presidencies of Ohio Wesleyan University from 1948 to 1953 and 1957-58 and the

ARTHUR S. FLEMMING

University of Oregon 1961-68.

Flemming held posts as a member of the U. S. Civil Service Commission (1939-1948); a member of the War Manpower Commission (1942-45) and director of the Office of Defense Mobilization (1953-57). Those posts were held by Dr. Flemming in the years between his service to education.

He also has served in other capacities including membership on the President's Committee on Labor-Management Policy, president of the National Council of Churches of Christ in America and president of the National Council of Social Welfare, and he served as a member of the National Advisory Committee on the Peace Corps.

Dr. Flemming has also contributed long periods of services and energy on behalf of his country and his church. Among these were membership on the first and second Hoover Commissions on the Reorganization of the Executive Branch of the Government.

In May of 1968, Flemming was the guest speaker at the centennial celebration program conducted by his home church, Trinity Methodist Church, Wurts and Hunter Streets, in Kingston, which had its beginnings in 1833 when meetings were conducted in the homes of various members.

Dr. Flemming earned degrees at both the American University and Ohio Wesleyan University, in addition to his LLD degree received at George Washington University.

He was awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Science by Albany Medical College in 1959. Dr. Flemming is married to the former Bernice V. Moler and they are the parents of five grown children, three sons and two daughters.

Back in March, 1959, Georgetown University played host to Dr. Flemming at its semi-annual academic convocation. During ceremonies the honorary Doctor of Laws degree was conferred on the honored guest, who delivered the convocation address.

Dr. Flemming also served some years ago as a trustee of the Theodore Roosevelt Memorial Association. He was awarded the Traveling Fellowship, Washington Branch, of the English Speaking Union in 1928.

Politically, Dr. Flemming is a Republican.

Air Action Heavy Over Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. command today reported a surge in the Indochina air war with North Vietnamese gunners firing seven antiaircraft missiles at U.S. Navy planes over North Vietnam and Laos and U.S. jets chasing a Communist MIG21 fighter back to its base inside North Vietnam.

U.S. planes fired missiles back twice in what the U.S. command calls "protective reaction." The American military also reported the worst booby trap incident in Indochina in more than a year. Seven American GIs were killed and 12 wounded Friday when a 105mm artillery shell rigged as a land mine blew up 26 miles southeast of Quang Ngai City, 318 miles northeast of Saigon. The dead and wounded were members of the Americal Division's 11th Infantry Brigade.

The command reported four incidents in which Navy planes were fired on and a fifth in which there was evidence of a radar "lock-on" in preparation for firing.

Two U.S. Navy F4 Phantom jets on a bombing mission in Laos between Mi Gia and Kan Kari passes sighted a MIG21 and pursued the Communist plane to Quan Lang Airfield, 49 miles northwest of the coastal city of Vinh in North Vietnam. As the U.S. jets approached the airfield, three Soviet-built SAM2 missiles were fired at the two Phantoms, damaging one of the U.S. planes. But both returned to their base.

Military spokesmen said "To the best of our knowledge—and we would know about it"—neither the MIG21 or the F4 Phantom was damaged.

Four Navy A4 Skyhawk attack bombers escorted another unarmed photo plane were fired on Friday 48 miles northwest of Dong Hoi and 40 miles north of the DMZ. The Skyhawks returned fire with missiles and cannon. Five minutes later the same unarmed reconnaissance plane and its escorts received electronic evidence of a Communist radar "lock-on" by an antiaircraft site 15 miles southwest of Ha Tinh, 92 miles northwest of the DMZ. One of the A4s fired a missile with unknown results.

in any part of the world that he sees fit. . . . If Congress sets that date, I think we might immediately run into constitutional difficulties because, after all, the President tells the Army when to withdraw—and he's done pretty well so far. But the Congress can make it almost necessary for the President to fix a date—and that's all they can do.

Q: By holding up his money? A: Yes, and through their resolutions.

He added, laughing: "I don't think even his closest advisors know what date it is."

Aiken then continued: "Now, he could, by Dec. 1, when you get about two-thirds of the troops out over there, he might be able to then, or he might postpone it two or three months—I simply hope . . . that he doesn't announce it the first of October '72 so that we can be charged, with political maneuvering."

Asked whether he anticipates any action on so-called war powers bills—such as limiting to 30 days the President's power to commit U.S. troops without congressional declaration of war, and then only under certain conditions—Aiken responded: "I think the Foreign Relations Committee will bring out some kind of a bill, but at this time I'm not sure what it will be. We've had a lot of witnesses, but it would be premature to make a prediction now."

Q: What do you think they ought to do—do you think a law is needed, or is the Constitution specific enough on this? A: Well, the Constitution, I suppose, if interpreted as it reads, gives Congress the power to declare war. It gives the President, as commander in chief of armed forces, the right to use them for the protection of American security interests.

A U.S. military source denied there had been an increase in air reconnaissance over North Vietnam in connection with the 10-day old Allied operation in the A Shau valley along the Laos border. But the source did note that in January, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird reported a sharp increase in Communist antiaircraft and surface-to-air missile sites in North Vietnam's lower panhandle and along the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos.

Claims An Agreement Asked why all the U.S. aircraft involved in action Friday did not fire in "protective reaction," a military spokesman said: "If the SAM missile is seen before the radar lock-on is detected, they (U.S. planes) take evasive action and do not shoot."

The United States contends that there was a "tacit understanding" with North Vietnam that in exchange for the bombing halt of the North Nov. 1, 1968, U.S. unarmed reconnaissance flights would be permitted over North Vietnamese territory.

Hanoi leaders deny such an understanding. To the north of the A Shau Valley, South Vietnamese Marines and infantrymen killed eight North Vietnamese troops in fighting Friday.

The Saigon command said two battles broke out in an area 35 miles northeast of the valley, which skirts the Laotian border. Communiques from Phnom Penh said the Communists shelled the capital area with 122mm rockets early today. Five persons were wounded.

in any part of the world that he sees fit. . . . If Congress sets that date, I think we might immediately run into constitutional difficulties because, after all, the President tells the Army when to withdraw—and he's done pretty well so far. But the Congress can make it almost necessary for the President to fix a date—and that's all they can do.

President Receives Committee Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee has voted to let President Nixon end draft deferments for college students and in apprentice and technical programs as well.

On another key point the committee voted Friday to keep a provision permitting conscientious objectors to serve two years in an alternative civilian service. The House had voted to increase this to three years.

After two years' service the objector, like other draftees, would stay in a reserve status for another three years. The Senate committee expects to finish work on the two-year draft extension next week, possibly Tuesday. It will come before the House.

The House, however, has nearly tripled that to about $2.7 billion while ruling out the possibility of a $1 billion bonus.

Any college student who entered school before that date would be free to complete his four-year undergraduate program before becoming subject to the draft.

'1776'—That 'New Musical From the Colonies'

A SCENE FROM "1776" with Pat Gorman as Martha Jefferson and William Jennings as Thomas Jefferson. Mount Saint Mary College Cultural Center will present the National Touring Company production of the spirited musical on Saturday, May 8 in the College Theatre, Newburgh.

"1776," the spirited song and dance musical about events leading up to the signing of the Declaration of Independence, will be brought to Mount Saint Mary College Theatre, Newburgh, for two performances Saturday, May 8, by a National Touring company of 35 actors, singers and dancers.

The musical, sponsored by the College Cultural Centre, is the only one ever to be presented in its entirety at the White House (at a Washington's Birthday celebration in 1970).

The story of the shaping and signing of the Declaration of Independence is presented through song, dialogue and even dancing. Humor and dramatic passion mingle as the great minds of the American colonies forge a new nation.

"1776" doesn't pretend to be an absolutely accurate report on what went on in Philadelphia 195 years ago. For one thing, the staid delegates are shown in the musical to break out rather often in singing and dancing, and there are a few incidents between delegates Thomas Jefferson and John Adams and their wives which are pure inventions of Peter Stone, the author. But chiefly the story line does follow the facts about the arguments and compromises that led to the big signing.

"1776" opened in New York in March, 1969, to one of the most enthusiastic critical receptions in years — and is still drawing thronged audiences there. It won the Tony Award and the New York Drama Critics Circle Award as the best musical of the season. Clive Barnes of the New York Times said, "I recommend '1776' without reservation. It is a musical with style, humanity, wit and passion . . . It might even run until 1976."

Leading off the cast will be Don Perkins as fiery John Adams; Paul Tripp as Benjamin Franklin; Patrick Hines as John Dickinson, the Pennsylvania delegate to the Continental Congress who opposed independence; Gary Beach as Edward Rutledge of South Carolina, who fought for a Southern viewpoint; and Tom Gorman as Stephen Hopkins of Rhode Island.

William Jennings is featured as Thomas Jefferson, who was tricked (in this musical's version of history) into writing the Declaration through the influence of his wife, who is being portrayed by Pat Gorman. Mara Worth is the other distaff member of the cast, playing the role of John Adams' wife.

Gordon Hunt has directed the presentation, the story of which is by Peter Stone, who based it on a conception of Sherman Edwards. Edwards also wrote the music and lyrics.

Stuart Ostrow, producer of the New York presentation and of this touring production in association with Theatre Now, Inc., has dared to present "1776" also in the "Mother Country" from which the rebels of 1776 cut themselves away. In London last spring this "new musical from the colonies," as it was kiddingly called, also became a sellout success, and it is still running there to packed houses.

The Cultural Centre will present two performances. The evening performance is sold out. However, many fine seats are available for the 2:15 matinee.

Tickets may be secured by contacting Mount Saint Mary College Cultural Centre, Newburgh, Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Curtain Going Up Thursday for 'The Pajama Game'

The fabric of festivity and fun is shaping up in New Paltz as "The Pajama Game" goes into final rehearsals. Presentedrrd 90-Miles-Off-Broadway, the rollicking hit musical will furnish New Paltz theatre-goers with a fine evening of frolic for the family. Curtain time will be 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 29, 30 and May 1 at the New Paltz High School auditorium.

Delightful song and dance is the pattern of Abbott and Ross' "Game." A long-run smash hit of the mid-fifties, "The Pajama Game" is loaded with lively music that will charm theatre buffs of all ages. The choreography promises to produce pure pleasure across the show — from top to bottom.

"The Pajama Game" involves entertaining labor-management confrontations between the production supervisor and the union Grievance Committee chairwoman, with romance the major means of arbitration. Walter Paradies and Linda Herr have the leading roles. Major supporting roles are assigned to Linda Hayden ("Gladys"), Pam Geuss ("Mabel"), "timekeeper" Frank Juliano and "union president" Scott Bodie. James Scott, director, is assisted by Albert Rothstein (music) and Gae Dixon (choreography).

All-Time Hits

The show's fourteen songs include memorable hits such as "Hernandoe's Hideaway," "Hey There," and "Steam Heat" and others not so well known but equally entertaining, such as "Racing With the Clock," "I'll Never Be Jealous Again," "Her

Is" and "Small Talk." All will be served up with the accompaniment of Rothstein's (24-piece) orchestra and, in many cases, with intricately interwoven choreography.

The production, "90-Miles" first musical, will launch the New Paltz amateur theatre group's tenth year of activity. Theatre-goers will be able to get tickets from NMOB members or at the door. Get 'em early, for this promises to be a big one for the Paltz players.

THE EMPHASIS is on love in "The Pajama Game," and one of the more delightful musical numbers features Walt Paradies and Linda Herr, both intent on proving that "I Love You More, No I Love You More." Fun-filled show opens in New Paltz next Thursday night.

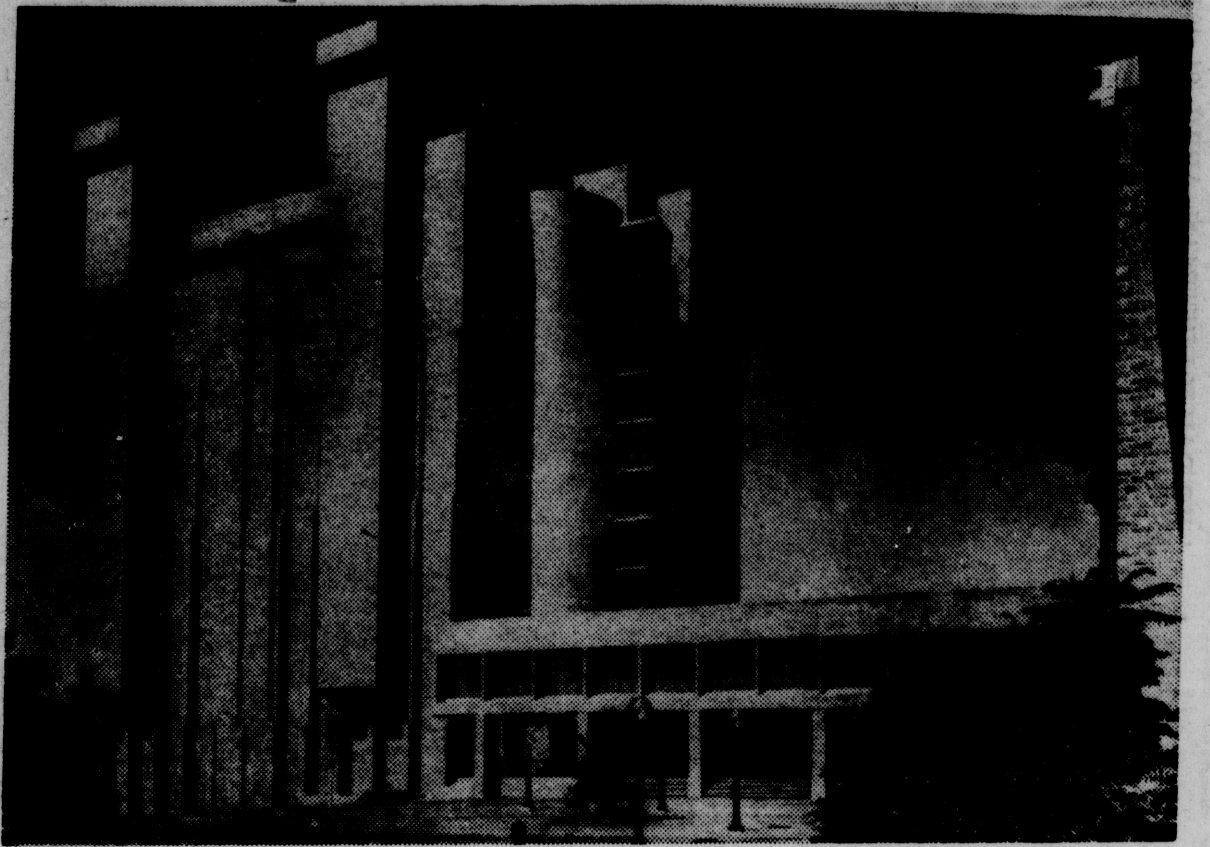

"I'M NOT AT ALL IN LOVE" number puts the girls of the "90 Miles" cast front and center. Singing and cavorting (L-R) are Sue Kraat, Nancy Grosshans, Lucy Livingston, Linda Herr, Arlene Robbins and Denise Heude. (Freeman photos by John Kruh)

For Local Art: Best Off-Season Ever

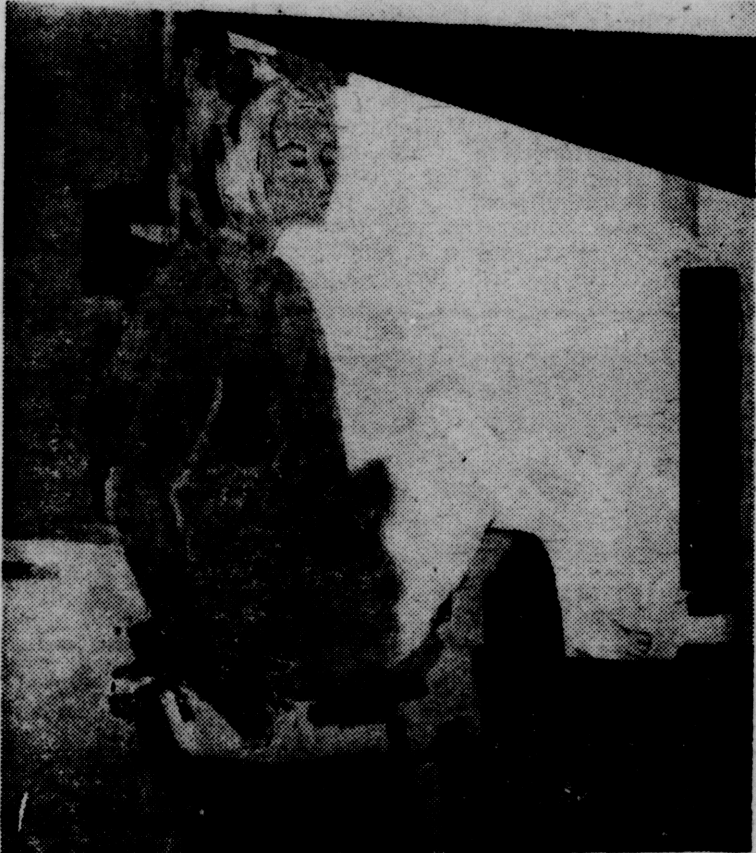

17—THE DAILY FREEMAN, APRIL 24, 1971

LINE OF TREES, attired in July foliage, was shown at early spring show in College Art Gallery at New Paltz. The work of student artist Tor Gudmundsen, it was painted directly from nature at Paltz's Ashokan campus. While summer has long been the peak season for art in this area, 1970-71 fall-winter-spring saw exhibits burgeoning as never before.

THE COLLEGE CAMPUS, where architectural art proliferates these days, was the star of a photographic display at Ulster Community College during January. This modern building at Cornell attracted viewers' interest—and art, in general—no longer relegated to a summer only attraction—had its best "off-season" ever this year locally.

AMONG THE MANY Ulster County artists represented in the Dutchess County regional exhibit at Hyde Park early last fall was Woodstocker Florence Keveson. In Dutchess, too, there was more emphasis on art during the fall and winter season than ever before.

STILL LIFE of cut flowers in vase was included in the Caroline Fairchild Kraemer show at Kingston's Delano's Gallery. Display of oils by this talented, 90-year-old, Binnewater artist was among the many shows offered at the Fair Street gallery throughout the fall and winter season.

IN SLEEK BARDIGLIO marble, "Double Figure" sculpture work by Herbert Kammerer, highlighted his one-man show at New Paltz's College Gallery last February. The town-gown community has become a year-round art center, contributing much to the cultural life of Ulster County.

FRENCH ARTIST Fernand Leger created this intriguing "Composition With Profile" print. It was one of many original prints by leading artists in an Ulster County Community College exhibit late last fall. Since settling in on its Stone Ridge campus, UCCC has offered much fine art for public viewing.

McKENDREE SPRING ROCK GROUP

Philharmonic Teams With Rock Group

Bob Dylan's words, "He not busy being born is busy dying" mark a truth which is revealed most clearly in springtime. To celebrate the rebirth of the season, the Hudson Valley Philharmonic in four concerts with a rock group called McKendree Spring. This is the orchestra's first venture with rock music, through the innovation comes as no surprise to the Hudson Valley. In the past, the orchestra has not hesitated to play with a basketball team, on a ski slope, on a baseball diamond or in a meadow by the river.

This week, the Hudson Valley Philharmonic and McKendree Spring performed together in Newburgh and Poughkeepsie. The orchestra and rock group will play on May 14 at 8 p.m. at Dutchess Community College in Poughkeepsie, and on May 16 outdoors in the "showmobile" at Ulster County Community College in Stone Ridge. Admission will be charged. The performances are made possible through the Cooperative Music Program, funded by the New York State Council on the Arts' grant to the Hudson Valley Philharmonic and the Associated Colleges of the Mid-Hudson Area.

The cooperation makes for a fascinating performance. McKendree Spring has been described as "a new season of music" and a "look from today into the future." The group is composed of Fran McKendree, vocals and rhythm guitar, Marty Slutsky, lead guitar, Larry Tucker, bass and Mike Dreyfuss, electronic violin.

String Featured

Of the members of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, the string and brass sections electric piano, electric bass and percussion. The program begins with a work by the string section. The second work, Maya II by Allen Raph, is performed by both the string and brass sections of the orchestra.

"Relay", also by Raph, marks the turning point of the concert. This piece in three movements is played by brass, strings and the rock group to relay the program to McKendree Spring.

After "Relay", McKendree Spring performs a work by Mike Dreyfuss called "God Bless the Conspiracy", an instrumental illustration of chaos and rebirth which characterize the U.S. today. As this ends, Dreyfuss is alone on stage doing a solo. As he finishes, the orchestra and McKendree Spring return to the stage to complete the "Conspiracy". Then, the Philharmonic and McKendree Spring conclude the concert with a work by Neil Young: "Down by the River."

Allen Raph, who is responsible for the composition of two works on the program, and for the special arrangements of "God Bless the Conspiracy" and "Down by the River", recently performed in Town Hall with his group, "The Seventh Century".

King of 'Bebop' In Area Concert

For those who are convinced that JAZZ is the greatest of all American arts, it will be well worth a drive to Albany next weekend for what should be one of the finest jazz offerings in the area this spring.

In conjunction with Spring Weekend, the University Concert Board of the State University of New York at Albany is presenting a free-wheeling concert, with two all-time jazz greats sharing the stage.

The concert holds forth at the State U. campus in the Albany college's gym May 1 at 9 p.m. Headlining the evening will be the fabulous Dizzie Gillespie, along with the talented Nick Brignola.

Tickets for students are $1 and, for non-students, the charge will be $2.50. Additional information can be had by calling Dennis Elkin at 457-6978 or Bob Rosenblum at 489-3886.

Big Spring Art Event

Leave it to Kingston's Ulster Academy to come up with what will undoubtedly be the most outstanding Art Sale of 1971.

Highlighting the sale will be works by many of Woodstock's finest artists, most of whom are internationally known.

The Academy has planned the sale for Saturday, May 1, and the festivities will hold forth from 3 to 6 p.m. that day at Ulster Academy, 105 Mary's Avenue, Kingston.

With globally-exhibited artists headlining the affair, the sale should be one of the most interesting art events of the season. Works by more than 40 artists will be on sale, including oils, watercolors, lithographs, silk screens, ceramics, and others done in mixed media.

Many of the artists exhibiting have been acclaimed throughout the U.S. and abroad. Among those to be featured will be Anton Refregier, Bruce Currie, Edward Chavez, Ethel Magafan, Eugene Ludins, Franklin Alexander, Reginald Wilson, Caroline Haeblerlin and Ann Blanch. Others include Rosemary Villchur, John Pike, Robert Angeloch, Brock Brokenshaw, Cecile Forman, Tom Penning, Norton Howe, Tom Riley, Paul Arndt and the late Konrad Cramer.

Says Mrs. Herbert F. Schwartz of Kingston, who is co-chairing this fund raising project with Mrs. David Ballantine of Woodstock: "It is because of the generosity of the artists exhibiting that Ulster Academy is achieving its goal as a very successful private, educational institution in this area."

Prices of the works on sale May 1 are attractive enough for any pocketbook. During the 3 to 6 p.m. reception at the Academy, many residents of Ulster and surrounding areas are expected to take this opportunity to meet the artists; select choice works from some of our finest and most famous artists.

So, mark the date on your calendar—because you're cordially invited to visit the school and view the fine works of art with an eye toward purchase. All proceeds from the sale go to the non-profit Academy.

Museum Village Reopens for '71

Museum Village of Smith's Clove opened its twenty-second season last week. Before the close of the 1971 visitor year, approximately 125,000 persons will view the Museum's collection of artifacts and craft demonstrations depicting 19th century American folk life.

Annual events, attracting regular visitors, will again take place. The Antique Automobile Show, Antique Show and Fall Festival of rural folk crafts and tasks, are scheduled. Weaving, dyeing, blacksmithing, and broommaking are among the crafts demonstrated daily during the season.

Of special interest, are two exhibitions: "American Cooking Utensils" (June 20), and "Orange County Craftsman-Weaver" (Aug. 29). Museum Village has also added a building. The new Steam Traction Building will be dedicated June 6, with the Museum's founder and first director, Roscoe W. Smith, in attendance.

Museum Village of Smith's Clove is about an hour's drive south of Kingston on Route 17, at Monroe. Reservations are required for groups of 20 or more, and may be made by contacting the Museum Office (914-782-8247).

Museum hours through season's end on Oct. 31:

April 15-June 14; Sept. 7-Oct. 31—10 a.m.-5 p.m.

June 15-Labor Day—10 a.m.-6 p.m.

Every Saturday and Sunday—10 a.m.-6 p.m.

TINY'S BUTTON GAME

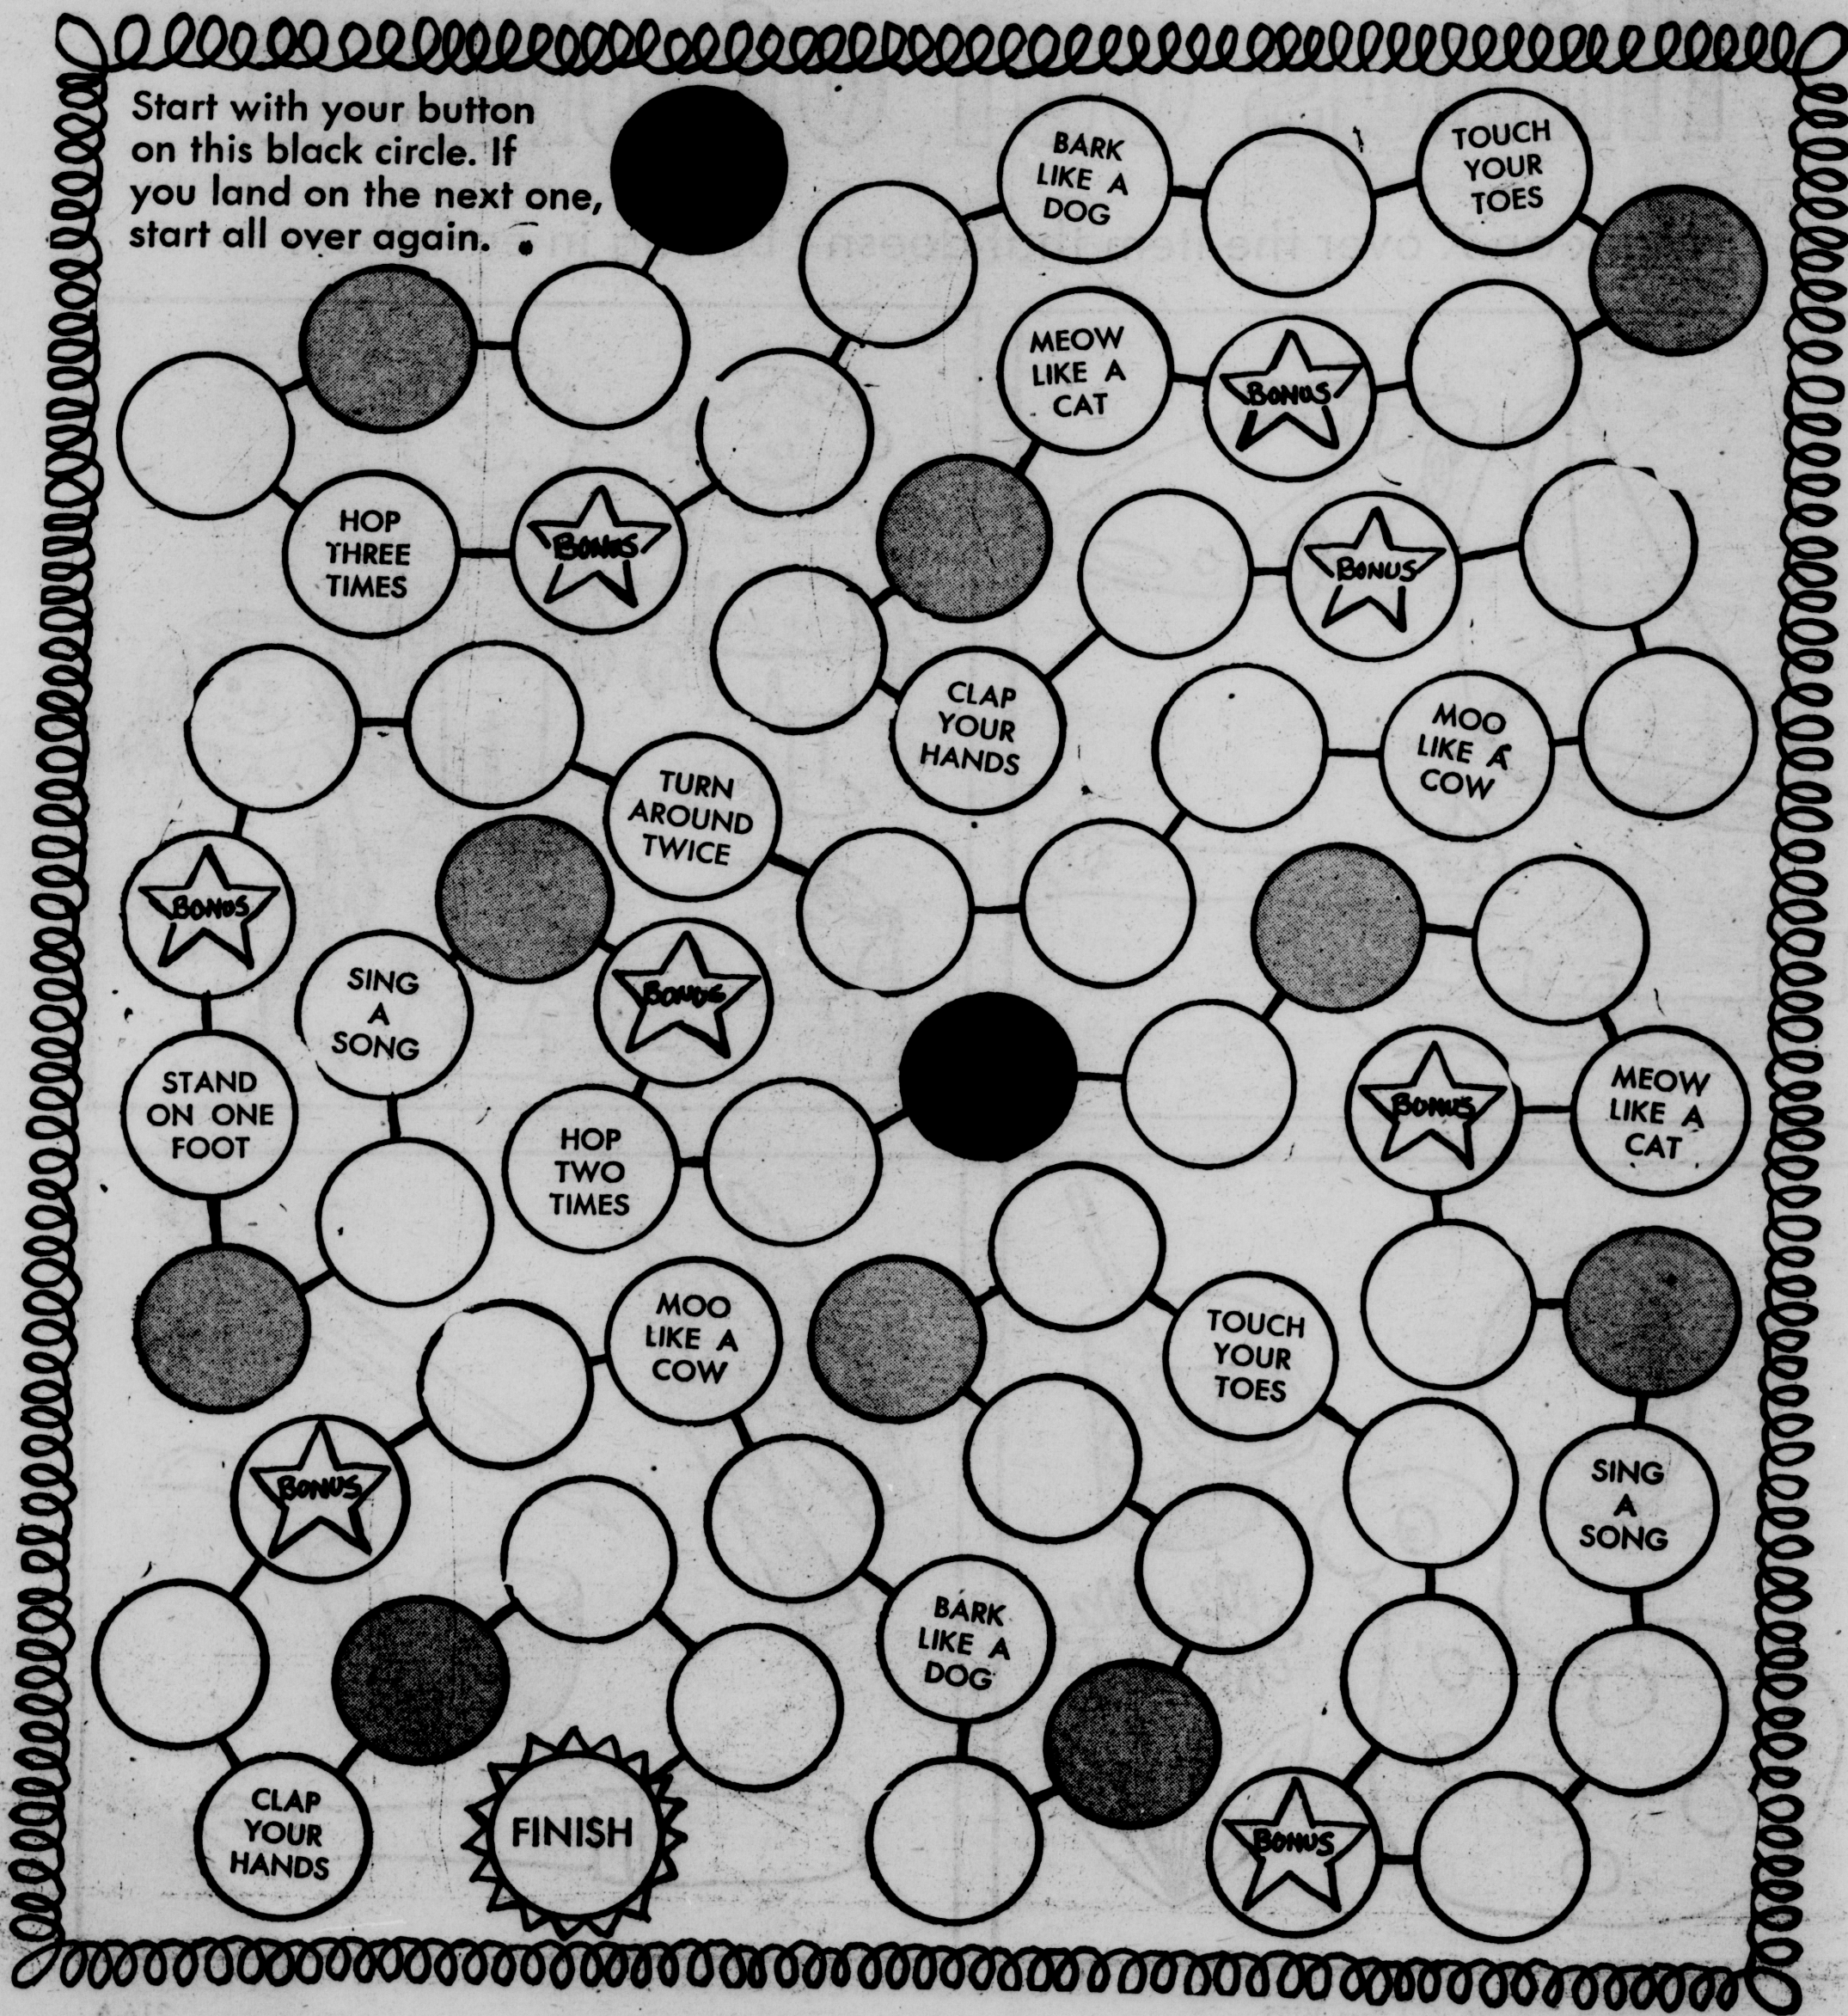

Give each player an ordinary button.

When a player lands on a penalty circle, he must do the penalty, then move his button back 1 space.

To start the game, the first player flips a coin and moves 1 space for heads, 2 spaces for tails.

If a player lands on a bonus circle, he must move his button forward 2 circles.

Start with your button on this black circle. If you land on the next one, start all over again.

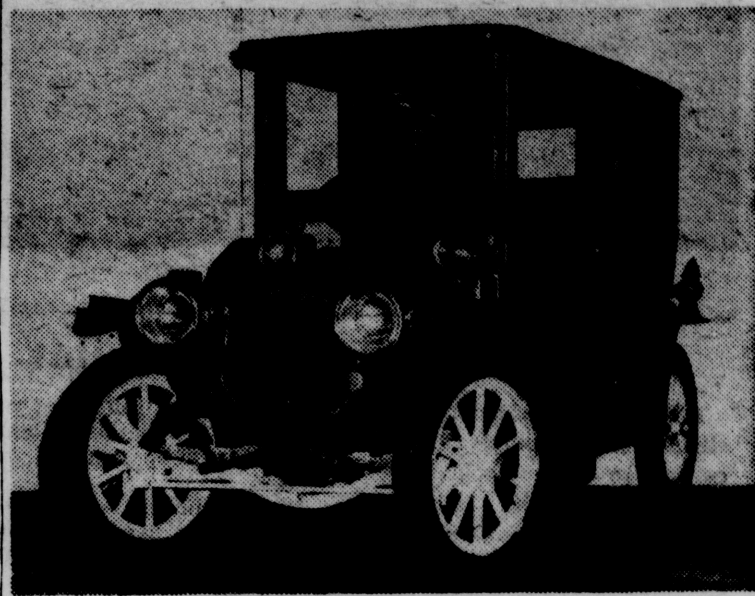

Banjo Street Band; Antique Cars Parade

Derbys, flappers, and skimmers will set the mood for Old Catskill Days to be held over in the Catskill area will be primed to handle the influx of tourists and nearby Catskill on June 19th. antique car buffs expected. The festival, sponsored by the Make your reservations early. Merchants Division of the Catskill will be offering bargains and side-walk sales. If a visitor wants to see a radio station in action, WCKL of Catskill will be set up and broadcasting from Main Street. There will be a parade of autos and a banjo band will be performing all day on the street.

This will be the second Old Catskill Days to be held. The first, about a decade ago, was an overwhelming success. Thousands of people invaded the Hudson River town to take part in that first Old Catskill Days and found it thoroughly exciting.

For further information on Old Catskill Days, write Greene County Promotion Department, Box 467R, Catskill, New York 12414.

IN THIS 1905 PACKARD, a promise of things to come at the old-fashioned Catskill Days being planned for June 19.

LYN AND DON BURNSTINE

With Autoharp, Kalimba & Psaltery They Perform 'Sacred Folk Music'

America has a stirring heritage of sacred folk songs, and Lyn and Don Burnstine know them in depth. The Hyde Park couple has built an unusual and unique program around this music and, this Sunday morning, Ulsterites will have the opportunity of sharing with them an experience that has been praised across the state.

The Burnstines bring their moving and beautiful worship service to the Old Dutch Church, Wall and Main Streets here, Sunday, April 25 at 11 a.m. The presentation has Don narrating the original ecumenical worship service with music sung by Lyn, accompanying herself on such ageless instruments as the autoharp, kalimba, mountain dulcimer and psaltery.

When the program was performed in Poughkeepsie, those in attendance showed their appreciation by pronouncing it both inspiring and informative.

Moving Experience.

The Burnstines have presented their moving service to some 16 congregations throughout New York. So unusual is their program that Sandy Paton, who heads Folk-Legacy Records, Inc., calls it "a carefully documented and beautifully presented survey of the sacred folk music of America, and a deeply moving experience."

Chad's Popular

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Spain's National Television Critics Guild selected Chad Everett of "Medical Center" as the most popular foreign actor of the year.

Dick as Portnoy

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Richard Benjamin will play the title role in "Portnoy's Complaint," movie version of the controversial novel.

Writer Signed

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Richard Crenna, who is actor, director, producer, signed writer Theodore Taylor to pen the screenplay of "The Cay" for Crenna's Pendick Enterprises.

Look at Nation

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—On completing his role in "The Love Machine," England's David Hemmings will film a documentary based on a six-week automobile trip from Los Angeles to New York City.

Lyn Burnstine is one of the area's most talented musicians. She majored in voice at Millikin University in Illinois, where she also studied piano. Her career has included such endeavors as choir director, dance school accompanist, piano teacher and church soloist. She has sung in choirs, chorales and choruses in the Midwest, South and East for the past two decades; is now an active member of a semi-professional folk trio, "The Merry Wives."

With this group, she has performed in more than 100 concerts here in the Mid-Hudson Valley in the last five years.

The Burnstines live in Hyde Park (Don is a Senior Engineer with IBM) with their three children, all of whom show an interest in folk music. The couple also operates a folk-music coffee house that brings talented traditional performers to Poughkeepsie. As a family group, they have performed in a program of folk carols presented in several churches during the 1970 Christmas season.

The public is invited to attend their presentation at the Old Dutch Church tomorrow morning. Those who do will find themselves agreeing, as Newburghers did, that it is "a most rewarding experience;" with Albany residents who gave it "rave reviews;" and with a Binghamton spokesman, who said the Burnstines "have succeeded in revealing the richness of our folk heritage (too often neglected in our worship services) — in a joyful and reverent manner."

'International' Slides Exhibit

An exhibition of selected color slides from around the world comes to Red Hook May 1. That's when the 15th Westchester International Exhibition arrives for a showing under the sponsorship of the Northern Dutchess Camera Club.

The public is invited to view the colorful slides show, slated May 1 at 8 p.m. in Red Hook's Linden Avenue School.

This 15th competition followed recommended procedures of the Photographic Society of America. A trio of distinguished judges picked the winners via electric voting machine; named gold and silver medal winners, and honorable mention ribbon victors.

Plan to be on hand when the final results are shown in the big international showing at Red Hook next month.

Lana's Stage Debut

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Lana Turner will make her stage debut this summer in Washington D.C. starring in "Forty Carats," the David Merrick comedy which enjoyed a long run on Broadway.

Something new for the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra is the Post Season Non Subscription concert planned at Saugerties High School Auditorium on May 1.

Claude Monteux, conductor of the area orchestra, will perform as guest soloist and conductor for this final concert of what has proved to be a highly successful 1970-71 season.

The concert comes after the end of the regular subscription series, which technically closed April 19 with the performance of Morton Gould's "Sounding" and "Fall River Legend," Ballet Suite at Kingston's Community Theatre.

Judith Searle Signs

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Broadway stage actress Judith Searle signed with Columbia Pictures for a featured role in "To Find a Man."

Pioneer Harris

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"Man in the Wilderness" stars Richard Harris as the first white man to penetrate the American Northwest frontier.

Daly Tapes Film

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—James Daly, co-star of MGM's "Medical Center," has taped a half-hour film titled "Knock on Every Door" for the Los Angeles County Heart Association.

It's a Post Season Concert for HVPO

Monteux is the son of the world renowned French conductor, Pierre Monteux, and Germaine Monteux, noted pianist. Born in Brookline, Mass., he began his musical studies in France at a very early age. An accident during college involving his right hand brought an end to plans for a career as a concert pianist. Monteux switched his studies to flute and trained under Georges Laurent who was then soloist with the Boston Symphony.

In 1953 he was appointed conductor of the Columbus Symphony. He remained in this post for three years and in that time transformed the orchestra into a first rate symphony. He also introduced a new type of youth concert to the area, enabling 50,000 school children to hear great music explained by members of the orchestra. Since 1959 he has been the permanent conductor and music director of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra. Under his directorship, the orchestra has become a professional ensemble which is rated today as one of the finest metropolitan orchestras in the United States.

In addition to his eleven year tenure as conductor and music director of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, Claude Monteux has been guest conductor of orchestras throughout Europe. With the London Symphony Orchestra, he has performed in his unique dual capacity as solo flutist and conductor, a role he greatly enjoys.

The many facets of Claude Monteux's career, conductor, virtuoso, flutist, recording artist, educator, make him a unique figure in the world of music. The further fact that he is a master in each gives depth and scope to all of his work.

"YOUR SHIELD OF SECURITY"

Flic Facts

IT WASN'T ALWAYS JOHN WAYNE.

The Western Film is more than 70 years old. Lately, it's had to adjust to the technological changes within the film industry and shape itself to fight off massive production costs. It's even seen itself produced enmasse in Spain, Italy and—strangely enough—Yugoslavia.

The Western movie, cashing in on the popularity of the dime novel, came into being before there were movie screens on which to show it. The first flics, often barely a minute in length, were designed to be shown in those early Peep Show Mutoscope parlors.

The Edison Company made a brief little flic called "Cripple Creek Bar Room," featuring top-hatted gambling dandies and a rough-and-ready bar presided over by a female Indian barkeeper. This epic was devoid of plot or acting and was only a short vignette.

The Turning Point

A turning point came in 1903 with the same company's THE GREAT TRAIN ROBBERY, filmed in New Jersey and directed by Edwin Porter. It was not—as has been claimed—the "FIRST WESTERN"—(a misnomer frequently repeated), but it was undoubtedly the first Western with recognizable crime, pursuit, showdown and justice sequences.

Most of all, the film benefited from primitive editing techniques and a fine sense of story telling and suspense. However, Porter missed the opportunity to become the Father of Cinema, but did manage to create the first American Movie Milestone.

Imitations, copies, duplicates and outright thefts of "The Great Train Robbery" were numbered in the hundreds and, two years later, the Edison Company itself made a parody called "The Little Train Robbery."

Suffice it to say that "The Great Train Robbery" was a remarkably sophisticated film for 1903. The rest is Western Film History. (By TOM JOHNSON)

Arts and Crafts Indoors and Out

That gala Arts and Crafts Show, previously announced for April and postponed for emergency reasons, is now slated to come off on Saturday, May 8.

The show and sale is being sponsored by the ever-active High Falls Civic Association, and will be both an indoor and outdoor event, taking over the building and grounds of the High Falls Firehouse from 12 noon to 10 p.m. on May 8.

Adding to the array of arts and crafts will be appetizing refreshments and entertainment by strolling musicians.

There's plenty of time for the public to plan to attend and there's even time for area artists and craftsmen to enter into the festivities. If you'd like to have your crafts or art work included in the show, call Jane Dawson right away at 687-7487.

Double Celebration

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Ernest Borgnine celebrated his birthday and leave-taking for a new movie in Spain at a surprise party arranged by his wife, Donna.

A Troubadour Harpist For Music Festival

Youthful folk harpist Eve Otto will be the performing artist tonight, Saturday, April 24, for the Woodstock Art Gallery's newly instituted Spring Music Festival. Eve will appear with her troubadour harp in a program beginning this evening at 7:45 p.m.

The talented musician has been a regular performer on the Woodstock coffee house scene for three years. Tonight's gallery concert, however, marks one of the rare occasions when an audience can hear her music in quiet surroundings, unmarred by a background din of table noises.

Eve Otto, in addition to her local appearances, has performed in New York City's Sheppard Gallery, and was heard over radio station WBAI there last February. Her music so intrigued folksinger Pete Seeger at last year's Hudson River Sloop festival in Kingston that he couldn't resist joining her in several selections.

With Jerry Jeff

At past Sound-Out Festivals in High Woods, Jerry Jeff Walker (famed for his "Mr. Bojangles") picked Eve and her harp for accompaniment. She has also performed in local Easter services over the past two years; has appeared in special assemblies for students at the Bennett, Old Hurley and Woodstock elementary schools in recent weeks.

The versatile Eve has also backed up Billy Mitchell on a cut for his new album; has signed to do the background music for two forthcoming films.

Tickets for tonight's concert at the Woodstock Artist Association are $2 each and will be available at the door. Listeners will also have an opportunity to view the current art exhibit on the walls of the gallery.

Music of Hard Times Theme of 'Folkfest'

The music of hard times will set the theme for the third annual Mid-Hudson Folk Festival at Orange County Community College, Middletown, Sunday, May 9.

Songs and tales of the mountaineer, the seafarer, the farmer, the weaver, the woodsman and the miner will be heard during afternoon and evening concerts on the picturesque 30-acre college campus. Last year's festival drew more than 1,000 folk fans and performers to OCCC.

"Most of our artists have themselves known poverty intimately," said Dr. Walter Gard, OCCC astronomy professor and chairman of the event. "Hard times have produced a memorable dividend of folk music for them."

Workshops and Concerts

The festival will open with the "Hard Times" concert and a "Fun and Games" concert for youngsters at 1:30 p.m. At 3 p.m. simultaneous workshops will be held in ballads, tale telling, instruments and "Anything Goes," an open sing for amateur and professional folk performers. The evening concert beginning at 7 p.m. will include Phase I, "Work," and Phase II, "Play."

Admission for the day's events will be $1 for adults and free for children. The festival is sponsored by the college's Lyceum Series.

The folk-singers scheduled for the OCCC program:

Britain's Lou Killen, one-time sailor, coffin-maker and pub-owner who delighted 1969 festival-goers with his sea chanteys, drinking songs and hornpipe airs.

Sarah Ogan Gunning, who writes and sings ballads of the hardships of the coal miners and the bitter struggle to organize the United Mine Workers in the 1930's.

And Still More

John Jackson, Blue Ridge Mountains blues singer whose style is a confluence of Southern black and rural white.

Scotsman Norman Kennedy, the spinner-singer and master story teller at Colonial Williamsburg and a favorite at the Newport Folk Festival.

Dan Smith of White Plains, a black harmonica player and blues singer whose Southern religious music is matched by songs of the Georgia turpentine farms.

Sandy and Caroline Paton, a husband-and-wife team from Connecticut who collect, sing and record folk tunes.

Grant Rogers, who was playing the fiddle at the age of seven around Walton, N.Y. and now-fifty-some years later, is regarded as one of the best best of traditional musicians and composers.

Larry Older of Middle Grove, a woodsman whose specialty is old family songs and those popular in local tradition.

Joining this group of veterans of the first two Mid-Hudson Festivals will be Sarah Grey, an attractive young Vermont native who studied English folksongs on a grant that took her to Britain, and who is regarded as an accurate interpreter of English and Appalachian songs.

JAMES EARL JONES copped his Oscar nomination this year for his portrayal of a heavyweight champion in "The Great White Hope," now featured at Poughkeepsie's Overlook Drive-In.

MOVIES

Husbands

The pull of lingering desperation is felt by many in today's, problem-strewn life. And few films have managed to capture with such subtle nuance that feeling as has "Husbands," now playing at both Kingston's Mayfair and the Rosendale Theatre.

John Cassavetes, who produced, directed and co-stars in the film, has shown his brilliance before in such movies as "Shadows" and "Faces." His latest offering, however, is his finest work. It is a great film and has important things to say about the human relationships between men and women.

Everybody must be possessed of some of the memories — if not all — that "Husbands" conjures. If one is not laughing along with the action, one is feeling the pangs that former aches and rejections brought.

Off on a Spree

There's almost no plot to the film, but there is a basic premise. Three middle-aged, married men (Peter Falk, Ben Gazzara and Cassavetes) go off on a wild spree after the death of a friend. Reluctant to admit they are growing older and could go the way of their buddy at any time, they elect not to go home to wives and kids after the funeral.

At first, it seems fun to drink, horse around, forget. But slowly and inexorably, their fling is infiltrated by feelings of loss and entrapment. To prolong the bender, they fly to London; inevitably find they have not escaped the dreariness of their normal lives, but have come up against reality again.

At film's end, one of the three does stay on, refusing to admit that his search for something more joyous and meaningful has been defeated. The other two return to the same old jobs and the family hearth — lives they all know will be listless.

There's a lot of provocative thought about pain and loss behind "Husbands," even though it's really more situation than story.

An Elephant Called 'Slowly'

At the Community here for matinees next weekend, May 2 and 2 only, this absolutely excellent film for parents looking for something decent for their kids. "Elephant" is ideal for the 4-to-11-year age bracket.

It stars the "Born Free" team, Bill Travers and Virginia McKenna, and they're back in Africa again, this time adopting a trio of elephants ('Slowly' is the baby) who come exploring into their Kenya backyard.

There's lots of marvelous footage shot out in the wilds and the animal life is portrayed authentically. Out in the veldt, the Traverses introduce us to many more animals than were seen in "Born Free," and the camera work is close in and detailed on everything from tiny birds to gigantic rhinos.

All in all, a personable and winning movie, and one that will make a very nice treat indeed for area youngsters.

So plan ahead to take the whole family next weekend.

Other Choices

COLD TURKEY. This comedy, about an entire town that elects to quit smoking for money, has proved so popular with local audiences, it's moved over to the Community Theatre after a longer than normal run already at the Mayfair. Among the major talents featured: Dick Van Dyke, Bob and Ray, and Bob Newhart.

GET CARTER. Michael Caine does what he does best in this film, now featured at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema. A clever investigator for a British syndicate, he sets out to unravel the truth about his brother's murder; encounters some interesting characters and puzzling clues along the way. Top-notch thriller!

FANTASIA. Time has not tarnished this Walt Disney, animated, full-length feature. Back for a rerun after many, many years at the Academy in New Paltz, it's an artistic triumph of winged horses, brave little unicorns, dancing mushrooms, good old-fashioned terror, dream-drenched color, and Mickey Mouse as the Sorcerer's Apprentice. Built around the music of the greats, it also boasts dewdrop fairies, cavorting fauns, and scary Bald Mountain.

MY FAIR LADY. Held over for a third week at Hyde Park's Roosevelt, one of the greatest musicals of all time. A rerun worth seeing again with Audrey Hepburn as the cockney flower girl and Rex Harrison as her mentor and tutor.

THE GREAT WHITE HOPE. Staggering good performance by James Earl Jones as America's first black heavyweight champion in this movie, now on view at Poughkeepsie's Overlook Drive-In. Powerful drama of the ring, with a fine performance, too, by co-star Jane Alexander as the black champ's white mistress.

Ballet's Brightest Stars for Saratoga

Patricia McBride and Edward Villella, two of the New York City Ballet's brightest stars, will be dancing at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center in August as well as in July this summer. The celebrated dancers will appear as guest-soloists with the Philadelphia Orchestra under the baton of Andre Kostelanetz in the concert of Wednesday, Aug. 18.

Entitled "Music of the Dance," the program will bring the Ballet and Orchestra together in Saratoga for the first time in this their sixth summer in residence.

'Swan Lake' Suite

McBride and Villella will perform in a suite of dances from Tchaikovsky's perennially popular ballet, "Swan Lake," and a new work by Villella, set to music of Shostakovich. The occasion will reunite Maestro Kostelanetz with the two dancers, who have co-appeared with the New York Philharmonic in its Promenade Concerts in Lincoln Center under his baton. In making the announcement, the Performing Arts Center emphasized the fact that McBride and Villella would be featured with the New York City Ballet throughout July, as usual, and that they would make their Aug. 18 appearance with the Philadelphia Orchestra as special guests.

For further information concerning the Saratoga Performing Arts Center's summer festival program, contact the Center, Saratoga Springs, N. Y. 12866.

Burnett on Stage
Carol Burnett undertakes her first stage stint in six years with a May 6-29 engagement in Neil Simon's "Plaza Suite" comedy at the Huntington Hartford Theater in Los Angeles. Her first time in a show without music. The comedienne wound up the taping of her 1970-71 CBS video shows last month. Movie Oscar winner George Kennedy co-stars in the play.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI
Auxiliary to Rapid Hose held annual dinner dance at Capri one recent Saturday. Flo Boice's husband Hank tried to get in on act disguised as woman, complete with wig, skirt and Greta Garbo chapeau. But those red longjohns give him away every time. Bernie Murray was in such a hurry to dance with his wife, he forgot to detach napkin from belt; if it'd been in rear, we'd thought he was the Easter bunny. Bill Mohr was excited 'bout bein' named to Hall of Fame; his wife beat him to it tho' three years ago. Fred Baker, proud owner of 12 Chevys—not all at once—is contemplatin' lucky 13. Karen Pentz thinkin' 'bout takin' up joggin' but it was mate Bob who downed three creme-de-menthe parfaits without a hint-of-mint (or weight.) Also havin' din-din were Marlene and Fred Crantz, Clare and Betty Uhl, Jerry and Isabel Kelder, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis Brennan, the Kellys—Martin Sr., Martin Jr., Roland and wives; John Dittus in striped shirt and handlebar mustache, the George Bar-ringers, parents of 1970 Page One Valentine Queen.

One gent claimed it was first time he set feet out of doors socially since men of Rapid Hose held shindig month before. So you can tell how they live, it up!

With Ides of April just passed and tax-payers decidin' their "status woe," Kingston Catholic Home School group sponsored Post Income Tax dance Saturday at Middle school hall. Decor would've given one nightmares! Six-foot 1040-A Tax Form hung dead center on stage surrounded by life-size cartoons "borrowed" from Wall St. Journal. Walls were covered with graffiti: Death and taxes are inevitable... The tax collector must love poor people; he's created so many of them... Fore every benefit you receive, a tax is levied... Never before have so many been taken for so much and left with so little... And Arthur Godfrey's famous: "I'm proud to pay taxes in the U.S. The only thing is, I could be just as proud for half the price."

Trees sprouted cash, genuine bogus bills, that is. Phoney "dough" featured "baker" in Lincoln's spot with guarantee: "Payable if over 80 years and accompanied by both parents." Register receipts formed messages which everybody got... Easy come, easy go! Clever gal who decked the halls with bills-'n-money was Mrs. Chil (Kay) Caruso.

Couple good things 'bout April 15 'tho'. Track opened at Saratoga for one (reporter Jon Powers' birthday for another.) Pre-season open house on previous Saturday began with continental breakfast, stable tours, seminars, autographers' row. Snoopy and Cinderella, straight from Storytown, arrived, in pumpkin coach, HORSE-drawn, of course. What with howlin' blizzard outside, Cinderella Slipper Contest should've been Cinderella Hi-top Boots. Day was topped off with souvenirs, free books for kiddies, prizes and surprises PLUS appearance of Miss Saratoga Harness... all broadcast LIVE by WPTR's Boom Boom Brannigan.

Speakin' of horses, don't forget the Lions Expo. We repeat: Don't forget the Lions Expo (opens Tuesday). If we sound like a broken record, it's only 'cause this year's Expo promises to be record-breakin'. And we got that first hand... straight from horse's mouth!

Outdoor Exhibit Slated in Milton

An outdoor art exhibit is being planned for May 16 at the Sarah Hull Hallock Free Library in Milton. The 1 to 5 p.m. affair is open to the public and refreshments will be served.

All residents of Ulster County are eligible to exhibit and there is no entry fee. Any art form is welcome in two age groups: adult and children (5-12).

Artists who are interested in exhibiting may write to Mrs. J. R. Eastland, P. O. Box 216, Milton, 12547, or call 795-5470.

Price tags may be placed on any entries. Applications must be in by May 1.

In case of rain, the exhibit will be held on May 23.

Comedy Theme Music

The theme music for that recently arrived CBS situation comedy program, "All in the Family," was composed by Charles Strouse, composer of Broadway's current smash hit, "Applause," as well as some past stage successes.

Focus on Uninhibited Romp In Next Coach House Play

Next attraction for Coach House Players, coming up May 13-15 at J. Watson Bailey School auditorium here, will be the Broadway comedy hit, "Sunday in New York." Authored by Norman Krasna, it's a frothy farce about a nice girl's increasing worry over her "unique" virtue in an era of "maybe" morality.

June Boyle will star as Eileen, an Albany newspaper woman who's begun to panic about her chance to "meet the competition" for a husband — if she keeps insisting to every suitor that "first" must come an appointment with a preacher.

The action of the uninhibited romp follows her adventures during a week-end excursion to New York to think over her problem. On this trip, however, she finds no opportunity to think it over quietly. One farcical situation follows another to heighten and make more urgent her Burning Question of whether she should fall off the edge into dalliance.

The Men in Her Life

George Quartell (Mike), Vince McCarthy (Adam) and Jerry Brennan (Russell) will portray the three men who complicate matters for her. Mr. McCarthy (Adam) will be seen as her good-hearted brother, Mr. Quartell (Mike) as a handsome stranger from Philadelphia who is also on a Sunday trip to New York, and Mr. Brennan (Russell) as her home-town beau who has pursued her to Manhattan.

Written with the smooth, graceful wit that has distinguished all of Norman Krasna's hits from the time of "Dear Ruth" in 1944 and "John Loves Mary" in 1947, "Sunday in New York" enjoyed considerable success on Broadway in the 1961-62 season.

Although the play's topic is an unseduced young woman's perplexity over her chastity, and its fun rises out of her ever-changing decisions over what to do about it, all New York critics were agreed that it is an innocent fable with a moral lesson for the young, and merely trimmed here, there and everywhere with some touches of ribaldry.

Once again, direction for a Coach House offering is under the capable and talented hand of Bill Skilling. And audiences know he can be counted on, as director, to keep the laughs rolling in this prankish comedy. Settings for the action range from a Manhattan apartment to a movie theater, the inside of a bus, a safety zone, a restaurant or two, and a deluxe $40,000 sports car.

Tickets for "Sunday" will be on sale at the J. Watson Bailey School auditorium from May 10 through May 12 during the hours of 7 to 8:30 p.m.

ERNESTLY SPEAKING

MIDWEEK MEMO

My periodic proddings about enjoying a celebrative dinner at ROBERTO'S on a week night, rather than play second fiddle to a week-end crowd, struck a chord, judging by the increase in midweek parties, small and large! A recent Monday foursome from Newburgh toasted the 13th Anniversary of Joan and State Police Sergeant Francis Steiner, in the company of Helen and Edward Franz, of Franz Rambler Sales. The Comment: "Very Good; Enjoyed By All, Cake Really Delicious!" That's our speed, Sergeant!

And Thursday brought another party from Kingston Hospital. This one was to celebrate the coming (May 15th) marriage of Elaine Kane. Among the 40 celebrants were:

So take heed, party people! If you want to make your party a bit special, hold it on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday or Friday. If weekend is a must, make it on Sunday.

SCENE AT ROBERTO'S

Pre-Easter Saturday was a ball for all... especially for Ed Shannon, who must have thought it was his birthday, or something, I don't know how he got around to so many parties... I guess the word for Ed is "ubiquitous." His first appearance was at the Dinner Party for the First Birthday of the Perry Twins, progeny of Lil and Dom Perry. While he was at it, Dom insisted on also celebrating the natal days of Ed Shannon and "Papa Joe" Amato, especially since Anne and Ed were guests at the table, as were the "Junior" pair of Shannons, Adelaide and Ed, of Kerhonkson, and Marlene and Ralph Perry of Woodstock. Ed Shannon's next appearance was in the Lounge, later on, when Charlie Cole sprung a real Surprise Birthday Party for "Dee" Cole. Attending were Mrs. Sophie Cole, Queen of The Clansons Ronald and Kevin, with Daughter-in-Law Debbie; Marie and Bob Gorsline; Flo Madden; Anne and Ed Shannon; Pat and Fred Spalt; Julietta and Joe Whittaker. Incidentally, Charlie had a banner hung in the lounge, proclaiming "Happy Birthday Dee—and you too, Papa Joe." Our beloved Matre 'd... who else? ... "Papa Joe's" own party (even later on!) drew too many friends and relatives to be enumerated here! Naturally the whole "Saturday Soiree" Cast got into the act, to honor the "Dancing Star." Tony "Red" Amato sang "Daddy's Little Boy." Rose Close, of Poughkeepsie, dedicated some beautiful numbers to the Becchetti Anniversary (see later note). Naturally, Augie, Fran, Dee, Ed Shannon and others did their stuff, ably assisted by Mark Garrison at the organ. Of course, Charlie Cole had brought his famed guitar along! Others among those pleasant included The Corcorans, The Dempseys, Louise Dietz, The Griggs, Dr. and Mrs. George Einterz, George and Martha, Dr. and

Mrs. H. Martin, The Matthews, The Perrys, The Scullys... too many to keep track of!... Speaking of "regulars" Mr. and Mrs. Charles Homfeld, of High Falls, hosted an Anniversary Party for Joan and Fred Moore, of Port Ewen (their 21st, to be exact.) Included were Mr. Fred Moore, Sr., of High Falls; Donna and Steve Cea and children, of Port Ewen, and the Moore Children. Mr. H. commented: "We love Roberto—back again and again, food, service and entertainment beyond reproach."

Continuing the Easter Week-end Appearances of Ed Shannon, we come to the William Cunninghams, of Walker Valley, celebrating Ethel Cunningham's birthday and her Anniversary. Guests included Mr. George Donceley, of Queens, Long Island; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lewis of Ellenville, AND Mr. and Mrs. Ed Shannon, of Kingston. Mr. Cunningham explained: Shannon was recuperating from the night before. Good Time had by All. Enjoyed singing with Mark Garrison and Tom Fitzgerald... terrific duo... Walter Barn, reporting a combined celebration of Easter Sunday and the birthday of Andrew Loucks, says: "Food Very Good; Service Excellent; Will Return." In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barn and Mr. R. Barn, of Stone Ridge; Mrs. Betty Jane Brown and son Eric of Tillson, and of course, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Loucks, of Schenectady... With space in the "Colyum" so tight, I cherish the one-word Comment: "Excellent," by Bill Sutton, of Ruby, who, with Sherry Heckert, of Lake Katrine, shared the 12th Anniversary Dinner of Marilyn and Rodney Bronson, of Ruby... and the Becchetti Anniversary, previously mentioned, was the 39th for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Becchetti, Sr., of Poughkeepsie; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Close (she's the Rose of the Great Voice), also from Poughkeepsie, attended. I'm sure it was Mr. B. who noted: "The Bride of 39 Years looked lovely; enjoyed everything tremendously."

ONE MINUTE PLEASE

While we hear from the Sponsor: With so many patrons reporting, I can't find space for a regular "Commercial" about Roberto's. But then, with so many people saying such nice things, who needs to write ads? So, until we meet again, in this same space, next Saturday... remember that Roberto's is not merely THE Place to Dine... it's THE Place to enjoy Dining... not just for the superb food alone, but for the friendly entertainment and the friendly folks who share it with you: Or, to repeat myself: "You can eat anywhere; at Roberto's, you Dine!"
